President in Yugoslavia

Nixon, Tito Confer on Mideast

BELGRADE (UPI) — President Nixon, concerned with the perils of new uncertainty in the Middle East, arrived today for two days of talks with Yugoslav President Tito as a key link between the Soviet Union and the Arab world.

Tito, the tough World War II partisan and fiercely independent Communist ruler of the postwar era, greeted the first American president ever to visit Yugoslavia moments after Air Force One thundered in from Naples, Italy.

The two rode together in a 17-mile motorcade from the Belgrade airport to the old palace downtown to the cheers of Tito's fellow countrymen along the route. Flags flew at half-staff in mourning for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, a Tito friend.

After laying a wreath at the Yugoslav Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Nixon will have his first extended meeting with Tito at a formal state dinner and reception tonight. Their main talks will come Thursday morning when they have a three-hour conference before Nixon visits Zagreb and Tito's birthplace at Kurnavac.

Tito passed up a chance to attend Nasser's funeral in Cairo so he could confer with Nixon during a presidential visit long sought and often promised by the United States. American relations with Yugoslavia have improved further since the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Tito visited Washington in October, 1963, shortly before President John F. Kennedy was assassinated.

Nixon ended a 22-hour morale-boosting visit to the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean with secret talks ashore in Naples with NATO military leaders and U.S. ambassadors on the power vacuum left by Nasser's death.

The 75-minute meeting with NATO commanders centered around the strategic capabilities of the alliance, which Nixon said "exists for the power of peace." There was no discussion of any specific troop figures, White House aides said.

In Naples President Nixon has called on the new leaders of Egypt to continue the cease-fire with Israel and agree to resume peace talks. Today, he turned his attention to what the United States can do to bring stability to the troubled area.

Nixon held meetings today with North Atlantic Treaty Organization commanders and with the U.S. ambassadors to Italy, Turkey, Cyprus, Tunisia, Malta, Libya, Greece, Morocco, Algeria, Israel, Lebanon, Egypt and NATO.

Aides said that Nixon discussed long-range strategy for achieving stability in the area, especially in view of the death of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Nixon Tuesday was presented with the names of five possible successors to Nasser. He refused to comment on the Egyptian political situation, but speaking of the peace talks, he told reporters:

"We trust that they (the new Egyptian leaders) will continue, and we believe that the new government, whatever it is, will see that its interests will be served by continuing the cease-fire, and, we trust, then going on to talks."

The President, on a five-nation tour, also held out the possibility for improved U.S.-Arab relations.

"We want good relations with all the countries in this area," he said. "We would like to have good relations with the United Arab Republic."

Nixon's visit to Yugoslavia took on added urgency after the death of Nasser, but is also close to several other Arab leaders. The President had planned to ask Tito to use his influence with Nasser to help work for peace.

In addition, Nixon is known to value Tito's knowledge of and contacts with the Soviet Union. A major purpose of Nixon's trip also was to show the U.S. determination to maintain its power in the Mediterranean where the Soviet fleet progressively is building in strength. Tito's position is that both fleets should leave, but privately he is understood to feel that if the Soviets are to be there, it is also good for the U.S. fleet to remain.

Nixon had considered curtailing parts of the rest of his tour, which also includes visits to Spain, Britain and Ireland, because of Nasser's death. But White House aides said he decided to go ahead at the request of the Yugoslav government.

Nasser Cortège Will Belong to The Arab People

CAIRO (AP) — Kings and presidents are gathering in Cairo for Gamal Abdel Nasser's state funeral Thursday, but the fallen Egyptian president's cortege will belong to the people.

The government requisitioned Cairo's major hotels to house the dignitaries, who began arriving Tuesday night. Millions of Nasser's subjects also poured into the city and its suburb, Kubbah, where his body lay in state in the presidential palace and will be buried in a public mosque.

Cairo Radio said the funeral procession will begin at the old revolutionary headquarters on Gezira Island in the Nile River and will end at the mosque, five miles from Kubbah Palace.

The high-ranking foreigners — the United States will be represented by a five-man delegation headed by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson — will march across Kasr el Nil Bridge into Cairo, through Liberation Square and onto the premises of the Arab Socialist Union, by Nasser's decree the only political party in Egypt.

There the heads of state and official representatives will withdraw, and the mourning Arab multitudes will take the procession through areas which Nasser had developed early in his reign to symbolize change in Egyptian life.

Burial will be at Manshiet el Bakary Mosque, built with public donations two years ago. Nasser himself contributed to the project.

According to Moslem tradition, Nasser's interment should have been within 24 hours of his death Monday at the age of 52. It was delayed to allow representatives of foreign governments to arrive.

Premier Alexei N. Kosygin of the Soviet Union, Nasser's most prominent patron during the last few years, was among the first to arrive. Weeping as he left his plane, he was embraced by Anwar Sadat, the acting Egyptian president, and Gen. Mohamed Fawzi, commander-in-chief of Egypt's military, their eyes reddened by tears.

Sadat, one of two military officers remaining in power of the seven who overthrew King Farouk and set up the republic in 1952, presided over an emergency meeting of the Cabinet and the executive committee of the Socialist Union soon after Nasser died of a heart attack. Nasser's chair in the center of a long table was vacant as the leaders presumably discussed when to select a permanent successor.

Cairo Radio said there was no statement after the 90-minute session. The constitution says the vice president — Sadat — becomes provisional president on the death of the president for a period not to exceed 60 days. The Socialist Union is designated to choose the successor.

Others among the early arrivals were Nasser's Arab friends and opponents.

Al Fatah, the largest Palestinian guerrilla organization, called its condolences to Sadat.

"Palestine's luck is black," the message said. "We find it hard to believe that the champion of the Palestinian people has disappeared from the arena at a time when the Palestine cause needs his leadership, skill and wisdom more than ever."

Uniformed guerrillas in Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon, where thousands demonstrated their grief, fired volleys into the air from automatic rifles, in keeping with Arab custom on the death of a leader.

Last Six Hostages Freed, New Fighting in Jordan

By United Press International

Six Americans, the last of 34 airline hijack hostages held by the Palestinian guerrillas, left Amman today for home and family ending a saga that began 25 days ago with the first mass hijackings in history.

When the six men reached freedom, the British government announced that Britain, West Germany and Switzerland would free seven Arab commandos held on criminal charges and whose release was demanded by the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine as ransom.

Israel has indicated it also will comply with the guerrilla demands that it release two Algerian officials, a Swiss believed working for the guerrillas as a saboteur, and eight Lebanese soldiers captured during an Israeli foray into Lebanon to attack guerrilla bases.

The six Americans told newsmen in Amman today they had been well treated by the guerrillas during 25 days of confinement in such places as Irbid and Amman. They flew first to Nicosia, Cyprus, today and then on to Athens for connecting flights.

Meanwhile, fresh fighting between Palestinian guerrillas and the Jordanian army broke out in Irbid, a commando stronghold in northern Jordan, the guerrillas said today.

A spokesman for the Al Fatah guerrilla organization in Beirut said Jordanian troops began attacking Irbid shortly after dawn with mortars and machineguns and the fighting was continuing. The guerrillas were returning the fire, the spokesman said.

The Al Fatah claim came only hours after the Arab League Committee, trying to keep peace in Jordan, ordered both government troops and armed Palestinian guerrillas to get out of Amman within 24 hours.

The committee, headed by

Tunisian Premier Bahi Ladgham, said the combatants must withdraw to positions at least three miles from Amman. Tuesday King Hussein warned that if some guerrillas did not follow the truce guidelines, action would be taken against them because they would be "elements interested in the destruction of Jordan."

With the future of the 90-day cease-fire agreed to by Israel on one side and Egypt and Jordan on the other in doubt because of the death of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, Israel said it was willing to continue the truce.

Israel Foreign Minister Abba Eban told a luncheon of the U.N. Correspondents Association in New York that Israel would not initiate action following the end of the cease-fire Nov. 5. At the same time he urged world pressure on Cairo and Moscow to get Soviet-built SAM missiles removed from the Suez Canal standstill zone.

However, there appeared to be little hope that despite possible continuation of the cease-fire, the warring nations would resume American-sponsored peace talks. Israel broke off the talks because of the movement of the missiles.

In Washington, reflecting its growing concern over Russia's involvement in the Arab world, the House has passed a bill that would give President Nixon the authority to supply Israel with whatever arms it requests short of nuclear weapons.

On a 341 to 11 roll call vote, members approved and sent to the Senate a compromise $19.9 billion defense procurement bill including a Middle East policy statement and an arms aid provision for Israel. A House-Senate conference committee worked out the compromise bill Monday.

The measure authorized President Nixon to transfer aircraft or "equipment appropriate to protect such aircraft" to Israel. "Nothing in this bill authorizes the sending of American personnel to the Middle East," Chairman L. Mendel Rivers of the armed services committee told the House. Israel says they'll fight their own battle if we supply them the weapons."

Smut Commission Urges Repeal of All Restrictions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Commission on Obscenity and Pornography recommended today the repeal of all laws prohibiting the distribution of explicit sexual materials to consenting adults.

In a long-awaited, already controversial report, the commission said it found no evidence that such matter played a significant role in causing crime, deviancy or severe emotional disturbances among youths or adults.

"There is no warrant for continued governmental interference with the full freedom of adults to read, obtain or view whatever sexual material they wish," the commission said.

The Nixon administration disavowed the commission's findings in advance, based on portions that leaked. Three members of the commission — two clergymen and attorney Charles H. Keating Jr., President Nixon's sole appointee — filed a strong dissenting report in which they called the recommendations a "magna carta for the pornographer."

The commission recommended, however, that states adopt laws to prohibit commercial distribution or display to young people of certain kinds of sexually-oriented materials. It said that there was not sufficient research yet on the effect such materials has on youth, but said, "a large majority of Americans believe that children should not be exposed to certain sexual materials."

The commission called for a

"Massive sex education effort" among all segments of American society — adults as well as children.

The commission majority declared:

"Executive empirical investigation, both by the commission and by others, provides no evidence that exposure to or use of explicit sexual materials play a significant role in the causation of social or individual harms such as crime, delinquency, sexual or nonsexual deviancy or severe emotional disturbances.

"This is not to say that exposure to explicit sexual materials has no effect upon human behavior. A prominent effect of exposure to sexual materials is that persons tend to talk more about sex as a result of seeing such materials.

"In addition, many persons become temporarily sexually aroused upon viewing explicit sexual materials and the frequency of their sexual activity may, in consequence, increase for short period. Such behavior, however, is the type of sexual activity already established as usual activity for the particular individual."

The chairman of the commission, William L. Lockhart, dean of the law school of the University of Minnesota. He and all other 17 members were chosen after result of seeing such materials. Congress created the commission in 1967.

Keating and the Revs. Morton A. Hill of New York and W. C. Link of Hermitage, Tenn., said the final report represented preconceived notions of the chairman, Lockhart, and that the recommendation to wipe out laws banning distribution of sex-related matter was "shocking and anarchistic."

Truck With TNT Blown Up by Snipers

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — A bullet from a sniper's rifle today exploded 42,000 pounds of dynamite being hauled aboard a truck owned by a firm involved in a teamsters union strike.

Police arrested two men and two women.

Only fragments of the truck and bits of the driver's body were found after the blast, which blew a deep crater in Interstate 44. The explosion was heard as far as 20 miles away and shattered windows eight miles distant in Springfield.

The truck was en route to a lead mine at Boss, Mo.

One of the two women arrested was injured, apparently by the blast, and taken to a local hospital. The woman was arrested at a farm house near Ash Grove, Mo.

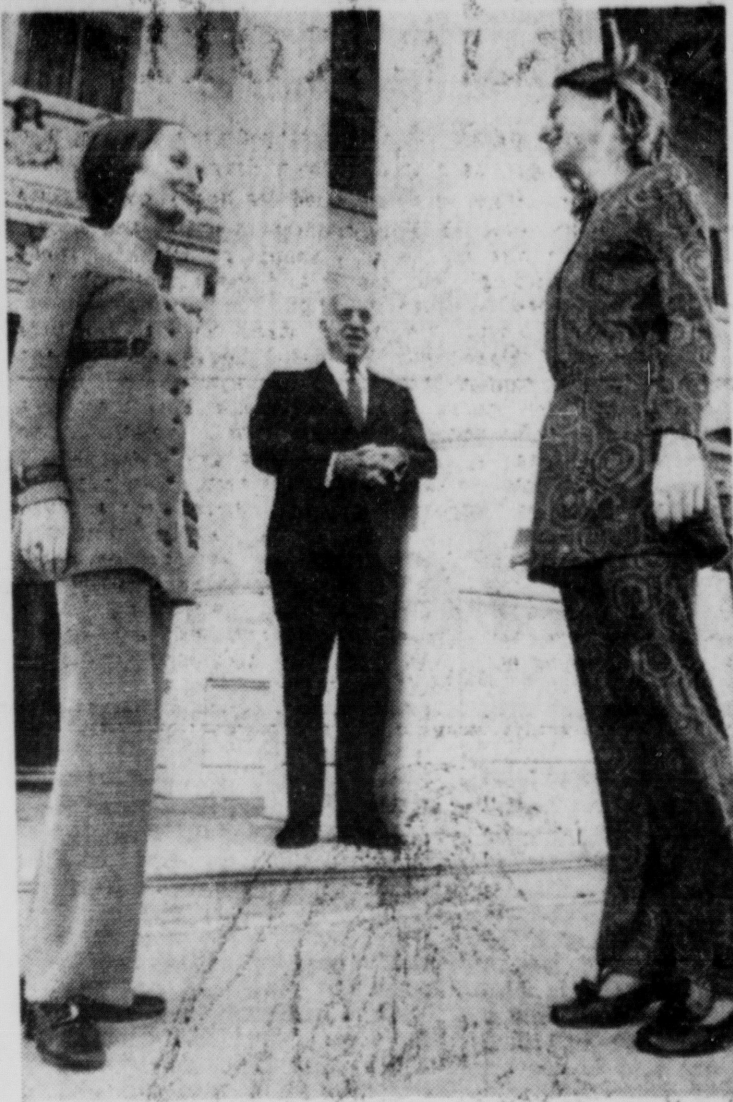

A car believed used by the snipers was found abandoned in a field near the scene of the explosion. The vehicle's windshield was shattered.

A rifle was found nearby and police theorized it was the sniper's weapon, blown there by the blast.

The truck was operated by Tri-State Trucking, Inc., the target of a teamsters strike which began Sept. 15. The FBI entered the case some time ago after several trucks owned by the concern, which specializes in the hauling of explosives and nuclear materials, were fired upon.

The driver of a Tri-State truck traveling ahead of the vehicle which exploded reported seeing a muzzle flash as he passed a highway interchange. Moments later the blast occurred, blowing a crater 25 to 35 feet deep in the highway and causing extensive damage to two filling stations and a candy shop located at the interchange. Approximately two hours earlier gunfire had hit the radiator of another truck operated by Tri-State, the Greene County sheriff's office said.

One way to show his dislike was to allow his female staff members to wear pants suits to work. Challenger Goldberg Takes Off Gloves

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—It was a tougher-talking Arthur J. Goldberg, striking directly at Gov. Rockefeller, on the upstate campaign trail.

Aboard his chartered jet-prop airplane flying from Albany to Rochester, the Democratic candidate for governor told reporters:

"I believe in a vigorous campaign. You don't pull your punches."

He had just accused Rockefeller of "the shabbiest kind of pandering to the voters' instincts" in proposing stiffer prison sentences for persons who bomb or burn college buildings.

Goldberg also had complained that the Republican governor had gone beyond the bounds of "permissible campaign rhetoric" in implying that "extremists" had taken over the New York Democratic party.

There's no excuse for such "fighting language and unfounded charges" in political campaigns, Goldberg told Associated Press newspaper editors meeting in Albany.

Clearly eager to press his attack on Rockefeller, Goldberg delivered these assessments of his Republican opponent during television interviews and a dinner speaking appearance in Rochester.

He claimed Rockefeller had "plagiarized" an idea he had put forward himself last March, to give state financial aid to communities across the state so they can put more policemen on the streets.

— He blamed Rockefeller directly for rising unemployment in Rochester and other areas of the state, saying "he has approved policies of the Nixon administration, which have been to deliberately create unemployment as a mistaken way of combatting inflation."

A Direct Election Just About Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has all but killed for this session of Congress a proposal for direct election of the president.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., a leader of the opposition, pronounced the measure dead after the failure Tuesday of a second effort to shut off debate and force the proposal to a vote.

But Indiana Democrat Birch Bayh, chief sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment, said he still has hopes of winning the two-thirds majority necessary to put the Senate's debate-closing rule into effect.

In effect, the electoral reform issue will be allowed to simmer for a while. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, said it will still be before the Senate but other measures will be taken up from day to day.

Bayh did not object when Mansfield moved immediately after the rejection of the cloture move to bring up a military construction bill, saying he no longer would try to block action on other legislation.

Ervin said the votes already taken showed more than a third of the Senate is opposed to the direct election amendment.

"We've had a lot of hokum about this thing," he said, "but this isn't the right solution."

Ervin pledged to devote a ma-

Rocky on Goodell...Some Boos, Cheers

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller has found that Republican workers are anything but indifferent to the mention of the name of U.S. Sen. Charles Goodell.

The name brought cheers Tuesday morning in Goodell's native Jamestown and boos at Kiamesha Lake.

At each place, and at stops in between, the governor reminded workers that the Republican party has to be big enough to represent differing points of view.

The reminder was especially strong at Kiamesha Lake at a meeting of the Sullivan County Republican Committee. When Rockefeller mentioned Goodell's name, there were scattered loud boos from parts of the audience. "Let's not get ourselves so narrow that we're more in a minority," Rockefeller responded in noting that the Democrats outnumber Republicans in the state. "Charles Goodell is an able, bright young man."

There were more boos. "That's all right—you can boo if you want to," Rockefeller said, "but I'm standing here as the leader of a party. This won't be an ovation. That's better," the governor continued. "I have my

Later, Rockefeller acknowledged that it was the first time that he had encountered boos upon the mention of Goodell, who has offended many GOP leaders for his maverick stance. "This is a free country and they have a right to express their opinion. But I had a right to express mine."

He said he had spoken sharply to the dissenters because "you can't let the group get out of hand. You have to act quickly."

The visit to Kiamesha Lake was the last stop on a busy day of campaigning that also took Rockefeller to Jamestown and Dunkirk in western New York. During the afternoon, he flew by helicopter to Arden to attend the funeral of Mrs. W. Averell Harriman, wife of the former governor.

At Jamestown, Rockefeller was greeted by cheers at the mention of Goodell. He told Goodell's sister, Mrs. Francesca Rappole of Chautauque, that Goodell should do well in the election once he starts reaching the people.

At an informal news conference, Rockefeller said he was helping Goodell financially in his campaign. He did not say how much, but sources close to Rockefeller said the aid ranged to more than $20,000.

Rockefeller also said he would debate Arthur J. Goldberg, his Democratic challenger, at any time or at any place so long as the physical arrangement did not require him to stand behind a lectern. "I'll be damned if I'll do that," he said. "That's my only condition."

Rockefeller said he was speaking for himself and would leave the details to his staff to work out. He said he felt that Goldberg was "foot-dragging" on the issue and "I think the last thing he wants to do is to debate."

On questions about other topics, Rockefeller said:

— He would probably spend more than the $5.2 million he spent on his last re-election campaign. However, he said, "it will be nowhere near $10 million."

— He "had nothing to do" with a recently published book attacking Goldberg. "I heard about it and received a copy, but I haven't read it."

Senate Race—Funds Issue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Campaign expenses again became an issue in the U. S. Senate race Tuesday when Democrat Richard L. Ottinger said his opponents should criticize Conservative James L. Buckley rather than himself because he suspected Buckley is spending more.

Ottinger, whose spending of vast amounts of his personal plywood fortune in the primary was scorned by opponents, accused Republican Charles E.

Goodell of creating a false issue of campaign costs.

The statements came during Ottinger's tour of the $76 million International Paper Co. plant under construction on the shore of Lake Champlain which followed a joint appearance of the candidates in Albany.

The trio shared a good opinion of the recommendations made by the Presidential Commission on Campus Unrest which, among other things, asks President Nixon to urge Americans "to step back from the battle lines into which they are forming."

Ottinger's statements, following a course established in recent days, struck out at the Nixon administration. He said he is the only candidate running against that administration which he claims jeopardizes middle and low income families with attempts to control inflation, including efforts to block "desperately needed" education funds.

Buckley said he seeks office "to help restore a sense of civility" to the nation. He cited his main strength as being the most "in tune with a majority of New Yorkers" on basic, crime-related issues.

Goodell maintained he is running on a record that included sponsorship of major legislation in areas of crime control, drug rehabilitation, housing and revenue sharing.

He downplayed polls showing him trailing in the race, and said he believes Ottinger leads and he is second. "I have been moving up," Goodell insisted.

The candidates spoke at a meeting of the New York State Associated Press Association in Albany.

Go Forward in 70's Kickoff

By NANCY SULLIVAN

KINGSTON — "You are the vital ingredient in our plan," Dr. Jeremiah Sachs told a small group of citizens who attended the first in a series of meetings designed to seek, inform and discuss problems in Ulster County in order to "Go Forward in the 70's."

The program was under the sponsorship of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce's Total Community Development Committee (TCDC), a committee which has been meeting for the past two and one-half years with its goal "to maintain and improve the quality of life in our community."

Tuesday night's first meeting featured a presentation by C. David Looks, president of the Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress.

"To wonder about the future of Kingston and Ulster County, we must wonder about the future of the Mid-Hudson Valley," Looks proceeded to present a series of slides taken in the Mid-Hudson area, encompassing the counties of Putnam, Orange, Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan and Greene, which depicted the problems, the future, recommendations and new ways and means as seen by Patterns.

Problems in this area concern environment and "spread city," housing, transportation, education, social problems, that relative to college enrollment, 34,000 more places are needed or six colleges the size of New Paltz State; office buildings, 33,000 more jobs or 90 businesses (such as the Kingston Shopping Plaza), more Ulster County Building; hospitals, 1974 more beds in nine buildings.

"We stand on the shoulders of a giant," Looks said. To have effective planning, to "Move Forward in the 70's" there is a necessity for "broad citizen support on a grassroots level."

Dean M. Kintner, president of Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, welcomed those attending and Len Cane, executive vice president served as moderator.

There is also a traffic demand which cannot be met by cars alone but still often makes public transportation impossible, Looks said.

The size of New Paltz, Looks said, has nearly doubled from 1960 to 1969 and could be the nucleus of a new city. There is a lot of land between Kingston and Saugerties which could be developed, and as the role of New Paltz State; office buildings, 33,000 more jobs or 90 businesses (such as the Kingston Shopping Plaza), more Ulster County Building; hospitals, 1974 more beds in nine buildings.

There is also a traffic demand which cannot be met by cars alone but still often makes public transportation impossible, Looks said.

Red Hook ACTION Program Spreading

By TIM SCHUSTER

KINGSTON — The varying political viewpoints were very much in evidence at the Red Hook Jaycees press conference at the Holiday Inn, Kingston Tuesday afternoon to spread the work of their ACTION program.

Robert G. Desmond, ACTION chairman, chose Red Hook Supervisor Warren Simmons to represent community aspects and both Robert Bruce, Bard College vice president, and Jeff Raphaelson, student, to give viewpoints relating to the college's role in the program.

Americans Cooperating to Improve Our Nation will consist of discussion groups at the Linden Avenue School in Red Hook on its trial basis, touching on problems facing our society.

Red Hook Jaycee President William Clappitt echoed Desmond's sentiments in hoping to spread the communications and idea throughout the state and even the nation. He said that he hopes to put the ACTION program before state and national Jaycee review boards to get a national stamp of approval.

Simmons, while noting that he was in favor of the idea and offering to help in his capacity as supervisor, also said that he must represent the feelings of the town residents in dealing with the college.

When asked if there was any "upright" feeling between the college and community, he replied that there was probably more of an awareness of potential problems with high school than college students.

Raphaelson, who is past president of the student government at Bard, said he viewed ACTION as a continuation of the student strike activities begun last spring, inasmuch as meetings on the Bard campus had precipitated the idea through Desmond.

Bruce commented that he didn't like being introduced as the "third part of a trioka," referring to the labels applied to student, community, and college administration. He added that he sees the purpose and ultimate usefulness of the program as emphasizing common ground, and responded to a remark by Supervisor Simmons by saying he could not dismiss students as being insincere or lacking in direction.

Democratic candidate for state senator David Lenefsky commented he didn't think the problem "is to eliminate differences, but to handle the differences" among various factions.

Desmond said that spreading the ACTION idea through the Mid-Hudson Valley had already begun, with special interest manifested by Saugerties and Woodstock Jaycees. Other area Jaycees contacted on the beginning of similar groups are Kingston, New Paltz, Rondout Valley, and Millbrook.

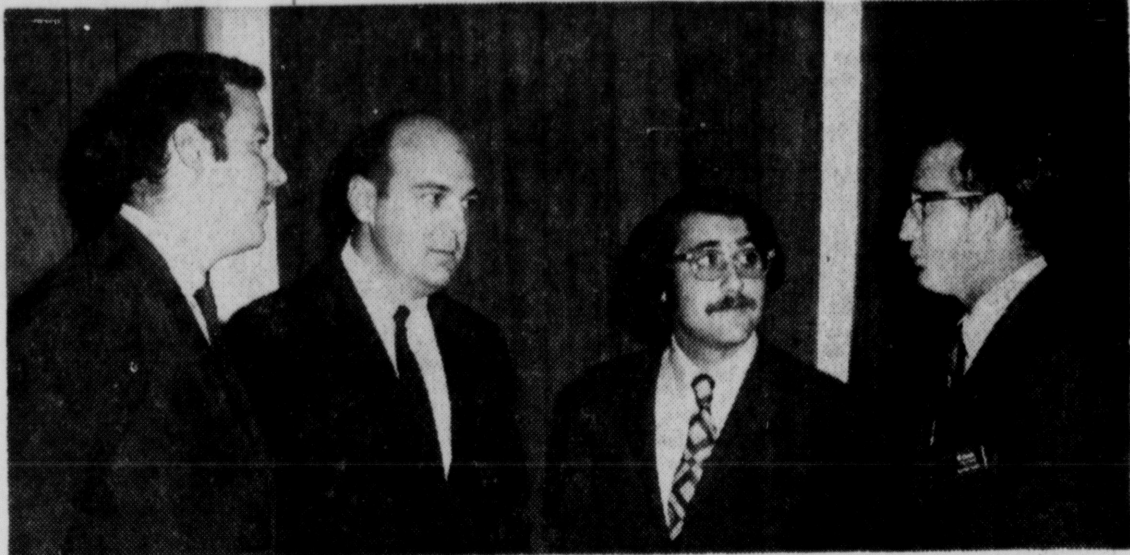

Clappitt said that the public of Northern Dutchess County is being made aware of ACTION's initial scheduled programs through the cooperation of several area supermarkets, which will distribute 11,000 leaflets in grocery bags. Posters are also being put up, and all areas of the news media were represented Tuesday.

The hoped for results are simply to encourage meaningful dialogue among persons of diverse views, and perhaps to solve some of the local problems while discussing those national in scope.

A significant point of agreement was reached in an "offhand manner" when Supervisor Simmons, World War II veteran, remarked that "democracy does not come cheaply."

"I agree," noted Raphaelson.

Tonight, generally fair weather is expected to favor the major part of the nation. A few showers, however, may be noted in parts of the North Atlantic states and Florida. Elsewhere, clear to partly cloudy skies should prevail. Cool air will continue across most of the country. Minimum temperatures include: Atlanta 53, Boston 45, Chicago 43, Denver 46, Duluth 41, Jacksonville 61, Kansas City 57, Los Angeles 67, Miami 74, New Orleans 61, New York 49, San Francisco 54, Seattle 49, St. Louis 53 and Washington 48 degrees.

Baddoo Hearing... Indefinite Postponement

TOWN OF ULSTER — A preliminary hearing scheduled for today before Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly for 24-year-old Henry Baddoo, exchange student from Ghana, was expected to be postponed indefinitely, according to an official.

Baddoo, accused of the ax murder of 82-year-old Howard

Grimm, retired New Paltz bank president and former town supervisor in that community last Thursday, is confined at Mattewan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane in Beacon.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the State University College in New Paltz, where Baddoo was a student at the time of his arrest by State and New Paltz village police, said the college was not closed on Monday as previously reported. He explained that administrators and faculty members and students who wanted to attend funeral services for Grimm, were permitted to, but otherwise classes continued on schedule throughout the day.

Greene Teen Girl Shot Fatally

GREENEVILLE — A teen-age girl was fatally shot near her home in this Greene County community Tuesday, when a 20-gauge shotgun carried by a companion accidentally fired, hitting her in the side of the head.

Leeds State Police said the victim of the shooting was 13-year-old Susan McCabe of this hamlet.

Greene County Coroner Leland

Cunningham withheld a verdict pending a complete report from investigators.

According to investigators, the girl was walking through a wooded area off Route 32 at about 7 p. m., accompanied by Christopher Maxwell, 16, his brother, David, 15, and 13-year-old Henry Hohenstein, all of Greenville.

Hohenstein was carrying the shotgun. He told troopers that he thought he heard a bird to his left. As he turned around girl's death.

and the gunshot hit the girl on the right side of her head, killing her instantly.

Coroner's physician, Dr. Kenneth Bott pronounced the girl dead. Investigation was conducted by BCI Investigator J. P. Mills, Sergeant D. J. Barnes and Troopers W. P. Fitzmaurice and D. R. Porter and Coroner Cunningham.

An autopsy report was awaited to determine cause of the death.

Expanded Service at Local VA Hospitals

NEW YORK CITY
As a step in its new program of bringing services closer to the home, the Veterans Administration is expanding its contact offices at two Hudson Valley VA hospitals.

Thomas V. O'Keefe, director of the VA's New York Regional Office, announced that the expanded service to veterans in a six-county area will be offered at the Castle Point VA Hospital, Beacon, N. Y., and the Franklin D. Roosevelt VA Hospital at Monroeville, in northwest Westchester. The contact office handles claims for pensions and other benefits.

The Regional Office in New York City has maintained contact offices at the two hospitals since World War II, but primarily for the benefit of hospitalized veterans. The new service is for those living in adjacent areas.

The counties directly involved are Westchester, with 133,890 discharged servicemen; Putnam, with 7,480; Rockland, with 31,040; Orange, with 28,320; Ulster, with 21,270, and Dutchess, with 31,760.

The contact office at the Montrose Hospital is in Room No. 3, Building 10 — telephone (914)

PE 7-4400, Extension 310. At Castle Point, the office is in Building 13—telephone (914) 831-2000, Extension 310. Contact Representatives in charge are Sam Manners at Castle Point and Henry Parker at Montrose.

Veterans or their dependents may make application for benefits or ask questions about their problems at either of the two offices nearest their home, according to Charles A. Willis, Contact Officer for the New York Regional Office.

They may make application for educational and loan benefits granted under the updated and revised GI Bill, and for compensation and pension. Those eligible include all veterans of the two World Wars, the Korean Conflict, the Post-Korean Conflict Period (Jan. 31, 1955 to August 4, 1964), the Vietnam Era and the Spanish-American War.

As of last Dec. 31, there were 5,000 veterans of the Spanish-American War still living in the United States. There were also two veterans of the Indian Wars still living. The last Civil War Veteran, a Confederate, died Dec. 19, 1959, at his home in Houston, Tex. He was Walter M.

Williams, and he was 117 years old.

In other Veteran News, Charles Culver, State Veteran counselor and John Tyler, director of the Veterans Service Agency at the county office building in Kingston ask:

Ever had your VA benefit check stolen?

It has happened to many on the VA benefit rolls. But here's a way to avoid losing your check—have the VA send it directly to your local bank for deposit to your personal checking account. It's safe and convenient. To arrange for this service you need only sign an agreement with your bank. This power of attorney is then filed with them, and the VA advised of the agreement. Assistance in giving power of attorney to your bank can be obtained at this office.

The fall election isn't too far off. If that serviceman in your family is going to cast his vote he'll need an application for a military ballot. Stop in to this office and get him one today.

Think now, did you mail in your monthly premium for your GI insurance for this month? Or, are you still in the habit of waiting until almost the end of your grace period? If you're in this rut climb out of it by making your premium payments on time. In fact, check into how you can save money, and avoid letting your insurance lapse, by paying your premiums on a quarterly, semi-, or annual basis.

Did you know that the key to VA benefits is a discharge under other than dishonorable conditions? It's a good reminder for young fellows about to leave for duty with the Armed Forces.

$15,000 is the amount of insurance a serviceman now receives when he enters service, that is unless he requests in writing that he wants only $10,000, $5,000, or none.

WEST SHOKAN act on his part," Lenefsky charged. Lenefsky declared that if elected he would refuse to vote for an increase in the sales tax or for an increase in the consumption tax. "Big business is not paying its fair share in New York State," he said. "Big business is long overdue for a tax increase."

"Surrounding states, such as Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania, all tax their corporations at a higher rate than does New York State," said Lenefsky. "The tax system in New York actually favors big business over people," Lenefsky declared.

"Corporations taxes provided the state with more than 20 per cent of its cash income in 1960," said Lenefsky. "Today, this tax accounts for only 15.2 per cent of State revenue. I believe that the citizens of Dutchess and Ulster Counties are interested in these important facts," Lenefsky concluded.

What is a ravioli? It's a square of macaroni, a big helping of beef in the middle, another macaroni square on top. Then it's cooked in thick tomato and cheese sauce. There's Chicken or Cheese Ravioli, too.

The Ravioli Smile. You don't get it with soups or sandwiches.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, SEPTEMBER 30, 1967

Registration

The days of registration for the November 3 general election are Saturday, October 3 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and October 6 from 12 noon to 10 p.m.

Polling places in the City of Kingston are Ulster County Office Building for eligible voters residing in Wards 1, 2, 3 and 4; New York State Armory for voters of Wards 5 and 6; Rapid Hose Firehouse for voters of Wards 11 and 12; UR Relocation Office on Delaware Avenue for voters of Wards 8, 9 and 10; Municipal Auditorium for voters of Wards 7 and 13.

Under permanent personal registration, no person is permitted to vote unless he is registered. Once he is registered, he will have the right to vote at all elections, without further registration, so long as he remains qualified to vote from the residence address from which he is registered, and must, in addition vote at a general election at least once in each period of two successive calendar years.

To vote one must be 21 years of age on or before November 3, citizen by birth or naturalization, a resident of New York State, your county, city or village three months and meet literacy requirements. And you must be registered.

With but two days of registration, people are constantly being urged to register so that they may vote in the general election. The political parties and many non-partisan groups are putting forth great effort to get out the vote. This newspaper has done so in the past. It will continue to remind of the registration requirement and of the privilege to vote.

As a citizen in a democracy, you also have the obligation to vote. Don't abdicate this responsibility or lose the opportunity by neglecting to qualify. This is your basic participation in local, state and federal government. Irrespective of one's present expectations as to the choice of candidates, it should be deemed an outstanding civic duty first to be registered and then to vote.

Every citizen eligible to vote owes it to himself and the entire democratic process to express an opinion at the polls. But first one must be registered.

Education Commissioner

The U. S. Office of Education has become so important, what with billions being appropriated for schools and many programs instituted for upgrading curricula, that there has been talk of making it a Cabinet rank department. The commissioner is an increasingly responsible officer. His choice creates controversy, since he will send federal supervisors into the community systems and necessarily will wield great influence.

The nomination of Sidney P. Marland Jr., formerly superintendent of schools at Pittsburgh, Pa., is no exception. Two years ago, Marland suffered a teachers' strike in Pittsburgh. The AFL-CIO Executive Council in August accused him of being "an avowed enemy of collective bargaining for teachers." His supporters say that his stands against exclusive union recognition and a threatened teachers strike were based chiefly on state law, that he is a reformist in the same mold as his predecessors.

The Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee, where Marland's nomination will be first considered, has influential labor ties. But HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson has called on each member of the committee before submitting the nomination. He would not have sent it up if he did not have reason to believe it would be affirmed. Other educational organizations are strongly supporting Marland.

On merit, Marland seems thoroughly qualified. Both the public school and the higher education community approve the nomination. Only labor objection and the growing rush for adjournment stand in the way of confirmation.

David Lawrence Says F.B.I. Will Not Station Agents on College Campuses

WASHINGTON — Contrary to some published reports, the Federal Bureau of Investigation will not — under legislation now before Congress — station agents on the campuses of the universities and colleges of the country. The agents will make investigations only when there are bombings or terrorist incidents, and their inquiries will be confined to those colleges which are the recipients of federal aid.

The FBI doesn't have enough agents to maintain, a police force on the nations campuses, nor does it desire to do so. It has its hands full merely conducting investigations in cases that develop as a result of the acts of terror which not only baffle local police but appear to have been originated by persons who are not connected with the colleges.

The extent of the terrorism generated by influences outside the campus has never been revealed. But J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, in his open letter to college students, written recently for United Press International, said: "There is real ground for concern about the extremism which led to violence, lawlessness, and disrespect for the rights of others on many college campuses during the past year."

"The extremists are a small minority of students and faculty members who have lost faith in America. They ridicule the flag, poke fun at American institutions, seek to destroy our society. They are not interested in genuine reform. They take advantage of the tensions, strife, and often legitimate frustrations of students to promote campus chaos. They have no rational, intelligent plan of the future either for the university or the nation."

"The extremists are of wide variety: Adherents of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) including the Weathermen; members of the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA), the Trotskyist Youth Group; the Communist Party's Young Workers Liberation League (YWLL). Or they may be associated with the Student Mobilization Committee to end the war in Vietnam (SMC), a Trotskyist dominated anti-war group."

"Many are not associated with any national group. The key point is not so much the identification of extremists but learning to recognize and understand the mentality of extremism which believes in violence and destruction."

In order to investigate the elements that are in contact with the militants, it is necessary for detectives to work on information given them by students concerning outside persons who have come to the campuses and helped to organize the disturbances. The local police or college officials do not have the time or resources for such wide inquiries. The FBI, on the other hand, is adept at carrying on intensive studies, which may require visits to other localities. This is one of the reasons why Congress now appears ready to authorize FBI agents to aid in the close examination of campus disorders, especially bombings and arson.

A favorite device of the extremists is to denounce the FBI and try to prejudice the students against the federal government itself. As Mr. Hoover says in his letter:

"They'll encourage you to disrespect the law and hate the law enforcement officer. Most college students have good friends who are police officers. You know that when extremists call the police 'pigs' they are wrong. The officer protects your rights, lives, and property. He is your friend and he needs your support."

President Nixon was so impressed with the letter that Mr. Hoover wrote for the UPI that he ordered a copy sent to 900 college presidents, to be distributed to students wherever possible.

It has been apparent for a long time that outside elements have often been responsible for the destruction of property belonging to the federal government, such as federal research centers and the premises of the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Radical students have had enough influence on various campuses to persuade the governing bodies to detach the colleges from any connection with federal research work and particularly with the ROTC. It is believed in many quarters here that this has been the result of a campaign by the extremists who have concentrated on these efforts.

By bringing the FBI into the investigative side of the problem, it is believed that conspiracies will be more promptly disclosed and participants subjected to punishment under federal laws which apply to acts designed to damage or destroy federal property.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Thomas Wolfe said "You Can't Go Home Again" because he knew that going back is often more of a heartbreak than a joy. All of us remember it as it was. Time drags its fingernails down smooth mountains and bankrupts shops marked "Est. 1893"; it paves country roads once read in Braille in large feet; lightning splits old elms and builds headstones in empty plots. It shuffles faces too.

I go back. Sometimes it amounts to three times a year, sometimes to four or five. It hurts, but it's a sweet hurt. Between Red Bank, N.J., and Seabright, a distance of about six miles, is the land I call home. Last week I went back because an old friend, Tom Bly, editor of the Red Bank Register, asked me to sit with him at a Chamber of Commerce dinner.

The car I rented roamed the roads and my eyes were selective. The beautiful white Presbyterian church on the hill is as eye-catching as ever, but you must see it in January when the snows are deep and silent on the slopes. Once, Rumson Road was rich rich. It ran eastward to the sea and there were escalloped hedges on each side and behind them the thick arms of red beeches, the slender grace of azaleas, and the huge old stone and pillared mansions.

No one ever saw the rich. Matched grays trotted before patent leather rigs, the sun spangling on the wheels in daylight roulette, to go to the Red Bank Station and meet the steaming, snorting monsters roaring downhill from Matawan. The rich got in the coaches and, up front, a man in a plug hat flicked a thin whip and the money began to breathe the life-giving odor of salt from the sea.

The final tennis matches before Forest Hills were played on the closely trimmed grass at the Sea Bright Tennis Club, and men like Bill Tilden and Don Budge crouched for the serve behind the fault line. Charley Butterworth came down to the Peninsula House once a season and brought a case of whiskey and holed up in a room while he was coming through the rye.

Old man Panacci had a dead hotel and he used to sit in the tower — 90 if he was a day — complimenting me that I was the only one who was interested in the days of glory. He had potted ferns hanging from the high ceiling on brass chains and they lived from 1880 until he died in the '30's. They didn't outlive the hotel, though.

Ryan's hotel on the beach was a good place to get drunk for two weeks. Everybody drank Tom Collinses in the summertime and the children were ordered into their bathing suits and onto the beach where the big green combers stood tall and steady, and then began to dip their heads in foamy white.

At night I shot pool in Jim Sullivan's saloon or ate pizza in Longo's place. The town council invited me to move out because I said that the village had 17 saloons and one church. I thought it was a fair shake. Some of the citizens learned wife swapping before Peyton Place.

Hempel's delicatessen was the best. His wife made the baked beans, the salads, and he had everything old-fashioned: mackerel from barrels, pickles too, rock candy, true licorice with the bark on it. It cost me $22 every time I entered his door and said hello.

An old swinging bridge separated the poor Swedish fishermen of Sea Bright from the rich of Rumson, but the Swedes drank hot slug and were merrier. I could have bought a house in Rumson, but the vigor, the life, the virtues, the sin were in Sea Bright. Doc Lynch, stiff as a crack of bourbon, used to leave the bar, impeccable in blue suit, tie and red carnation, to deliver babies, minister to whooping cough, and comfort the dying. He was seldom paid, and he never asked.

We had a mayor in town hall who on one occasion avoided embarrassing questions by excusing himself jumping out the men's room window, and driving home. Whatever graft there was in the village wouldn't cover an airmail stamp. Captain Dougherty was the best cop they had and he took children on picnics. This was safe because any burglar who invaded Sea Bright was off his nut.

The rich are gone now. Most of the mansions on Rumson Road have been replaced by ranch houses. The sand is golden and sifts through the fingers like brown sugar. I drove slowly, and my eyes saw only the things they wanted to see. The thunder of the sea is the same and the big trees peek through their branches at the stranger.

To me, it's home...

Jack Anderson Says Alabaman Who Helped Oust Powell May Get Same Treatment

WASHINGTON — The tables may be turned on big Bill Dickinson, the rock-ribbed Alabama Republican, who helped to spearhead the investigation of Adam Clayton Powell.

The Harlem congressman was bounced out of Congress for misconduct uncovered by this column. Now we have compiled evidence that Dickinson, who served on the committee that investigated Powell, may have violated the bribery and kickback laws himself.

Here are the facts: At a 1968 political rally in Andalusia, Ala., Dickinson was put in touch with D. R. Jackson, vice president of Spears Service, Inc. The company sought a million-dollar contract with Ft. Rucker, Ala., to haul gasoline. The two men left Andalusia together and drove toward Montgomery. At a designated spot, Dickinson disembarked and rode the rest of the way with two campaign aides, Paul Hambrick and John Cantrell.

Hambrick recalled that the Congressman, reporting on the ride said Jackson had offered him $5,000 if he could get the contract for Spears Service. The first $1,000 was supposed to be paid immediately, according to Hambrick, and the remaining $4,000 would be paid after the contract was signed.

"Favorite Charity" Dickinson's recollection was different. He acknowledged that Jackson had asked for help with the contract but denied that money had been mentioned during the car ride. The congressman said there had been talk later of a $5,000 contribution to "my favorite charity."

Jackson, discussing the ride with my associate Les Whitten, said: "The Congressman made no promises, but said he would lend his assistance to me." Cantrell, the only other witness, couldn't be located. Everyone agreed that the

$1,000 downpayment was received. Cantrell arranged to pick it up from Jackson at a service station outside Lapine, Ala., and drove to the rendezvous with the Congressman's then secretary, Melba Wells. There, Jackson explained that he hadn't been able to raise the money. But a few days later, he gave Cantrell a $1,000 check made out to cash.

Confronted with the evidence, Jackson admitted the check had been contributed "in behalf of the company." He explained frankly: "we were interested in getting representation in Washington in case we needed to protest about the contract. We wanted to be sure if push-came-to-shove that we could get a fair hearing on the contract."

Congressman Took Cash Hambrick said the check had been turned over to him, that he had cashed it after the election and that he had handed over the cash to the Congressman. As Hambrick remembered it, he delivered the cash to Dickinson at the airport as the Congressman was about to fly off on a congressional junket. Hambrick said the Congressman thrust the money into his pocket.

"He could have given me a wad of money," conceded Dickinson, "but I have no memory of it." He said the $1,000 had been a campaign contribution and suggested it wasn't unusual to hold a check until after the election to pay late campaign bills.

The amiable Alabama legislator also admitted he had used his position on the powerful House Armed Services Committee to get the million-dollar contract for Spears Service. He said he had sent Jackson to talk with counsel Jack Redden, who handles military investigations for the committee and, therefore, has power of intimidation over the Pentagon.

The Congressman's aides also contacted both the Pentagon and Ft. Rucker in behalf of Spears Service. All this was the kind of help, Dickinson said, that he would give any constituent. He also insisted there was no connection between the $1,000 payment and his efforts to aid the company.

Violations of Law It is against the law for a Congressman to accept money for helping anyone with their problems before the federal government. Jackson's $1,000 offering is nowhere recorded as a campaign contribution. In any event, it is also against the law for corporations to make campaign contributions to Congressmen.

Dickinson admitted, further, that he had raised the government salaries of certain staff members to cover their travel, hotel, restaurant and other expenses. He acknowledged that Hambrick, for example, had been given a salary boost to pay campaign expenses in 1968.

It looks as if Congressman Dickinson may have some explaining to do to the Justice Department.

Henry J. Taylor Says Greece Is Our NATO Partner

ATHENS — Prime Minister George Papadopoulos is feeling undercover pressures while pro-Soviet propagandists, and others, here and abroad whoop it up for the fall of this NATO-member government.

Behind the scenes, and with Moscow's usual hidden force and total cynicism, even the International Labor Organization (ILO) in Geneva, Switzerland, is being used.

Our U.S. taxpayers are paying $7 million a year to support the 120-nation ILO, an outrageous 25 per cent of the total payments. On August 19 a Senate subcommittee voted to stop this, for the Communist-bloc countries have all but taken it over. And here the ILO's dangerous anti-American, anti-NATO attack involves Red-bending this country's 400,000-member General Confederation of Greek Labor (GSEE).

I find this is spearheaded by United Arab Federation of Labor delegate Ahmen Fahim. Our CIA here knows that Fahim is actually in Egypt's secret police. The stooge Bulgarian, Hungarian and Polish delegates to the ILO are also part of Fahim's spearhead — all front men for the U.S.S.R. And in June the ILO appointed Kremlin strong-man Pavel E. Astapenko an assistant director.

Greece is today the only Balkan nation outside the Iron Curtain. Every mile of this lovely land's 300-mile northern frontier borders on a Communist country. West to East, these are: Albania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria — all Red and all ready. Greece dangles like a plum under them. But the people here know the Reds well.

This country lived longer under Nazi invasion and occupation than any of our NATO allies. In fact, of the 15 NATO nations only eight were ever occupied by the Nazi forces. Yet, in all those horrible Nazi years Greece's casualties did not equal the incredible 250,000 Greek men, women and children killed during the Communists' two subsequent attempts to take over Greece.

On April 21, 1967, Colonel Papadopoulos and an officer group overthrew the shaky government of Premier Panayiotis Kanellopoulos.

The conveniently mountainous terrain made (and still makes) guerrilla infiltration as ideal as from Red North Vietnam into South Vietnam. It was apparent that someone had to act, or Greece was on the verge of being another South Vietnam or Castro's Cuba.

The military Putsch was an anti-Communist Putsch. It was dictatorial, as was the Red Putsch itself, and largely remains so. A certain provincialism, the stifling of other opponents and this government's failure to grasp many opportunities to put its better foot forward fills those who love Greece with dismay and turns world opinion against this country — all of which is marvelous water on the Red wheel. But the alternative to this government is a Red government — a fact the propagandists in our country and elsewhere make it their business to ignore.

Yet this is the essence of the American interest — or should be. By the present government America's interest, not Russia's, is served.

Greece is our country's NATO partner. It fully supports NATO and our foreign policies as a whole. The Red attackers who were stopped by "the colonels" publicly swore to withdraw Greece from NATO and they remain to this very day as anti-American as the Red leaders in Hanoi.

The Soviet clearly threatens the free world in the Mediterranean. It is a countering of this threat which is indispensable in the American interest. We need an ally, not an enemy, in Greece. The relation of this government to the security of the United States is the basis on which Greece should be judged.

Goodell's Function Strangely Useful

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Win or lose, U.S. Sen. Charles E. Goodell seems to be performing a strangely useful function for his party in the present election campaign.

In the view of several Republican campaign strategists, Goodell has been serving as a "lightning rod" for Gov. Rockefeller.

One of the governor's associates put it this way: "Lots of people in our own party always are unhappy about something Rockefeller did or didn't do. And they always used to let him know. Now they're too busy being sore with Goodell."

The result is that, during his campaign travels around the state, Rockefeller has been received with almost benevolent warmth by local Republican organizations that weren't always so friendly. This appears especially true in conservative areas upstate.

Four years ago, just after Rockefeller pushed the state tax through the legislature, he was campaigning virtually by himself. Dark mutterings from the electorate inspired caution in county chairmen, and local candidates for the State Senate and Assembly often found it prudent to have "previous commitments" when Rockefeller rolled into town.

There was much talk then, as there always had been, that Rockefeller was really too liberal, too free a spender of government money, to be a real Republican. Self-appointed real Republicans were inclined to accord him tolerance rather than approval.

What a change now. At most campaign stops, local party leaders, legislative candidates and other Republicans seeking local office are right there when the campaign plane or bus stops. They are eager to be photographed with the governor and they vie for the honor of introducing him to campaign audiences.

The reason they give is always the same — that Goodell has "betrayed" his moderate Republican heritage by adopting strongly liberal positions in opposition to the policy of President Nixon.

"Some of the people who are kicking Goodell around," another Rockefeller aide said, "are the type who have to have something to gripe about. So, Charlie presents a nice, handy target. And they can show their own party loyalty by making a big thing out of backing the governor."

So, Rockefeller apparently is benefiting from this psychology, at Goodell's expense. And the governor is aware of it. At least according to an incident that Goodell himself related last week.

Talking to a Republican audience in Rochester, Goodell said the governor had expressed his sympathy and understanding of the situation in these words:

"Charlie, I want to thank you. I want to thank you for taking the heat off me."

Nixon Trip Clear Warning to Soviet

By LEON DENNEN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—(NEA)—Reacting to Western concern at the unprecedented build-up of Russian naval strength in the Mediterranean, Moscow's press seeks to justify this permanent presence outside traditional waters by casting the United States in the role of villain in the Middle Eastern drama.

"American imperialism acts today as the most malicious, irreconcilable and aggressive enemy of national freedom and peace," said the authoritative Krasnaya Zvezda in comment on the civil war in Jordan.

According to the Soviet Defense Ministry newspaper, it is "the leading military circles of imperialism, led by America" who are "against detente and peace."

These are shabby clichés from the Kremlin's propaganda arsenal. But in view of the critical situation in the Eastern Mediterranean it would be folly to dismiss them with a bored yawn.

Kremlinologists have long noted that the Russians are most abusive in their attacks on other nations—capitalist or Communist—when they are themselves guilty of acts of aggression.

Shortly before President Nixon embarked on his European journey, Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, American commander of NATO, warned that Russia's land, air, rocket and naval forces in Europe "form a concentration of power that exceeds anything the world has previously seen."

These forces "far exceed anything that is required solely for defense," Goodpaster said.

Another senior U. S. officer,

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, also warned months ago that Soviet naval operations in the Mediterranean "are becoming unmistakably more aggressive."

Even perennial "doves" in the Senate now realize that Russia's massive military aid to Egypt has been given with far more in mind than support of President Nasser or assistance in defeating Israel.

To be sure, Israel is an obstacle to Russia's expansion in the Middle East. But its defeat would be, as it were, a mere by-product of Moscow's grand design to control the Mediterranean.

Under the circumstances, Nixon's trip cannot be written off merely as a domestic ploy to gain political advantage in the November elections.

The crisis is real. The threat of an East-West confrontation is far more ominous in the Mediterranean than it ever was in Vietnam.

It was obviously to "show the flag" that the President scheduled a visit to NATO's southern headquarters at Naples. It was a warning to Moscow not to take his policy of "negotiation instead of confrontation" as a sign of weakness.

It also explains Nixon's decision to go to Yugoslavia—his second visit to a dissident Communist country.

Yugoslavia's President Tito has been watching the Russians like a hawk ever since they invaded Czechoslovakia in 1968. A Marxist-Leninist himself, he understands the Kremlin's leaders better than Western politicians and does not trust them.

Tito particularly fears the Russian policy of "limited sovereignty" which ostensibly gives Moscow the right to invade any Communist country where, in the Kremlin's view, "socialism is threatened."

The official public line in Yugoslavia is to deplore the "intrusion" into the Mediterranean of the U. S. Sixth Fleet as well as the Soviet navy. But Tito has made it abundantly clear that he trusts the American capitalists vastly more than his Russian Communist "comrades."

But quite apart from Tito's fears, a Russian occupation of Yugoslavia and neighboring Albania, with its excellent port facilities in the Adriatic, would give Moscow another foothold in the Mediterranean.

NATO's southern flank—Italy, Greece, Turkey, plus the security of the Mediterranean-based Sixth Fleet—would be penetrated.

Dr. Kemeny knows this and is resigned to it. As have other new-look university presidents these days, he has asked for a time limit on his leadership life.

"The man I replaced was president for 25 years," Kemeny explains, "but with the heat of today's campus, I have no intention of lasting that long."

Low-Key Boss John Kemeny Urges Change at Department

Editor's Note: This is the second of three articles about "new-look" college presidents, who face the challenges of today's changed campus scene.

By TOM TIEDE
HANOVER, N. H.—(NEA)—

At the turn of the century an obscure educator named William Tucker, startled the academic world by criticizing local politics. As a result he was chastised by peers and condemned by officials. He also became the most successful president in the history of Dartmouth College.

This year an obscure educator named John Kemeny, named Dartmouth's 13th president last January, has gone his predecessor one better. He has rapped the political civility of the entire United States. As a result, according to students anyway, the guidelines on presidential success will have to be completely revised.

"Kemeny, Kemeny Say some more. Tell them where To shove their war."

Until May, Dr. John Kemeny was hardly the subject of student chanting here in the New Hampshire hills. He was brilliant (one of the nation's top computer mathematicians). He was interesting (foreign-born, Jewish, his family chased out of Budapest by encroaching Nazism). But he had made no special impact on the students.

Then, when Cambodia and Kent State blew the nation's schools apart last spring, and kids everywhere vomited horror, Kemeny emerged as a folk hero. Seizing the campus radio station microphone, he "painfully" listed the ills of the hour, suspended classes for a week and sharply stated that "civilization in this country has reached a stage I find totally intolerable."

It was a performance to do his turn-of-the-century counterpart proud. It was to anger many officials. But it delighted the students. Moreover, it probably was the reason there was not a single act of violence in the school.

"Gutsy," a student remembers, "it was gutsy as hell."

Actually, gutsy is not a word one would normally employ in describing John Kemeny. In fact, it is difficult to use any word except "bland." He's short, double-chinned and speaks inaudibly from behind a mustache. Spiro Agnew might call him "an effete snob." George Wallace, "a pointy-headed intellectual."

In appearance he is a "new-look" college president but an old-look one. And yet the 44-year-old educator-author (one of his books is entitled "Denumerable Markov Chains") is as "now" as is academically possible.

And, yes, gutsy too. He refuses to confine either his interest or his opinions to his campus. He's opposed to the draft. He thinks the Arabs are out to exterminate Israel. Environmental pollution makes him angry. The fact that "many people are going hungry in America" makes him furious.

And he fairly sputters about urban blight. None of his opinion is animated. Kemeny is not histrionic. Like the computer he keeps ever present in his office (he plays football games on it, "along with other things"), he states his views with click-click objectivity.

One sample, on Vietnam: "In this day and age, to argue that we must take these acts because the United States has never lost a war is the type of argument that I, for one, simply cannot accept. Most of us have reached that stage in our thinking where we feel that war itself must be eliminated and questions of winning and losing wars have become meaningless."

For all his lack of emotion, however, Dartmouth's 3,900 students, many of them emotional, dig him. Regardless of Kemeny's outward calm, students realize he is as impatient as they to invoke social change.

He wants to do away quickly with Dartmouth's 200-year-old tradition of female discrimination—only men get Dartmouth degrees. He wants to quickly bring in more black and minority group students—the school was originally built to educate Indians. He wants to quickly add more students to the college decision-making progress—students here have been traditionally without franchise.

"You know," he says, "I don't really agree with everything the students say and want. Just most of it. And most of all I agree on the time period. I want things done now. I want New York City livable in 10 years, not 100. I want the war to end next month, not the next decade. We need the changes in a hurry."

Unfortunately for this urgency, Kemeny's dreams may prove larger than his accomplishments. At least at Dartmouth. Even a quick look at the school indicates change will not come fast. While many students here prod for action, most remain moderates. And of the important alumni segment, a recent poll discovered that 72 per cent describe themselves as either center or conservative.

One man, even the president, can do only so much. Dr. Kemeny knows this and is resigned to it. As have other new-look university presidents these days, he has asked for a time limit on his leadership life. "The man I replaced was president for 25 years," Kemeny explains, "but with the heat of today's campus, I have no intention of lasting that long."

England Windmills—Monuments to Bygone Age

LONDON (UPI)—About 100 privately owned or maintained windmills remain in England, monuments to a bygone age when wind was a major source of power. There is Polegate Mill near Eastbourne on the Sussex coast. A tower mill built in 1817, it was restored in 1967 and its apple-wood machinery was put in working order. The late author Hillaire Belloc owned the King's Mill at Shipley. The mill, built in 1879, remains in working order and is now owned by Belloc's daughter. It is an eight sided smock mill of the type that first appeared in the 13th century and earned its name because of resemblance to a countryman's overall. Union Mill at Cranbrook, Kent, is at 72 feet the second highest remaining windmill in England. It stands on a three-story base and its sails still turn in a brisk wind. The Old Windmill on Reigate Heath, 22 miles south of London, was built 300 years ago in the reign of King Charles II. Church services are now held in it once a month. Nearby is Outwood Mill, a post mill built in 1665. Saxtead Green Mill, a white post mill on a painted brick roundhouse northeast of London in Suffolk, dates from 1796. It was in use until shortly after World War II. The machinery remains in working order and its entire superstructure revolves above the roundhouse containing mill stones. Wicken Mill, a small pumping mill with canvas sails near Cambridge, is in working order. Farther south is Stanstead Mill, a 65-foot red brick tower mill that looks much the same as when it was built in 1787. It served as a scout headquarters when its milling days ended. The nearest windmill to London is at Brixton, an 1816 tower mill that has been restored by the London municipal authority. It has been open to the public since 1967. Although their days of power production are gone, the windmills still attract artists, photographers and tourists.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened irregularly higher in moderately active trading today.

The market's ability to edge higher Tuesday in the face of new international uncertainty indicates to some analysts that the basic near-term trend for stocks is higher.

Fred Ansell, analyst for Shearson, Hammill & Co., noted that the list is far more responsive to domestic economic and monetary news than to international news unless such news is likely to trigger an armed confrontation between the big powers.

Saul Smerling of Standard & Poor's added that market psychology is being "dominated by an easier money policy" which should tend to spark a business recovery early next year.

Shortly after the opening, the Dow Jones industrial average was off a fraction, but advances topped declines, 186 to 113.

Among the oils, Pacific Petroleum rose $\frac{1}{4}$ to 28 $\frac{1}{4}$, while Occidental Petroleum was steady at 19 $\frac{1}{4}$. Gulf Oil gained $\frac{1}{4}$ to 27 $\frac{1}{4}$. Texaco dipped $\frac{1}{4}$ to 31 $\frac{1}{4}$, but Jersey Standard rose $\frac{1}{4}$ to 67 $\frac{1}{4}$.

No Passenger Future Claims RR President

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — We're still losing money, but we're improving," said the new chief administrative officer of the Penn Central Railroad Tuesday.

William H. Moore, who became president of the Penn Central Transportation Co. this month, said losses during the first half of 1970 were $1 million a day.

The company is being reorganized under bankruptcy law.

"There's absolutely no future for inter-city passenger busness," Moore said, attributing continuing drops in passenger business to the number of automobiles available and the interstate highway system.

And, he said in a news conference, the Penn Central is doing everything it can to maintain satisfactory passenger service.

But the steps taken, Moore said, are not attracting more riders.

Trains in the high speed metroliner service between Washington, D. C. and New York City arrive on time 94 per cent of the time, Moore said, but they are only about 62 per cent full.

"We're not making money on the metroliner," he said and added that passenger volume on the metroliners has been going down for the last three months.

Early Check Aid to Many Women

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A nationwide campaign to spot cancer early in women has prolonged—in many cases saved—nearly 3,600 lives, the American Academy of General Practice has been told.

Family doctors examined around one million women for cancer of the cervix between 1965 and May 1970, said Dr. Louis Bush, a general practitioner from Baldwin, N.Y., who is chairman of the academy's cancer committee.

He reported his findings Tuesday to the annual convention of the academy, which is in the process of changing its name to The American Academy of Family Physicians.

Bush said cancer of the cervix, or neck of the womb, is the second leading cause of cancerous death among American women. Detected early, cervical cancer can be controlled in many cases, but because of tardy diagnosis some 10,000 will die from it this year, he said.

The tool of the five-year campaign was the Pap test, in which a smear is taken from the cervix, and a stain and microscopic examination discloses abnormalities in cells. A biopsy of actual tissue then can confirm whether cancer is present.

Until recently, Bush reported, many family doctors and far more of their patients remained unconvinced that this quick and simple procedure was reliable. The five-year project clearly establishes the Pap test as a reliable tool of cancer control, he said.

In 1963, when a Public Health Service survey showed that only 15 per cent of American women over 30 had ever had a Pap test, the academy obtained a PHS grant and launched a campaign to promote it among its 31,000 members.

Ellenville Burglary Under Probe

A burglary at the Keyspot Restaurant in Liberty Square, this village was under investigation today by police.

Authorities were notified at 6:40 a.m. that the establishment had been entered and Sergeant Otis Brown and Patrolmen Warren Hull and Anthony Yerks investigated. Police learned that a side door had been pried open and a cigarette vending machine had been rifled. It was not immediately determined how much money was taken from the machine.

With 5,500 family doctors taking part in 42 states, findings from 1.7 million cervical examinations were reported. Bush said. Out of 20,000 suspicious cases, biopsies confirmed cancer in 3,602 cases. Many of these were in early and more easily controlled stages. Among the other suspicious cases, 2,300 women either died from cervical cancer or were unavailable for follow-up findings.

She was educated in the New Paltz School System, and after graduation from New Paltz High School she attended the State University at New Paltz. Mrs. Musal joined the staff of the New Paltz Savings Bank in 1954 as a teller, was named as an administrative assistant in 1966, assistant treasurer for the bank in 1968, and this year was promoted to her present position as assistant vice-president, servicing the mortgage department.

The new general chairman of the Community Chest campaign in New Paltz in accepting her position stated . . . "I sincerely feel that I am joining with many concerned citizens throughout Ulster County who know they are doing a job which has to be done, not just for the residents of our own particular area, but for all of the people of our county." Mrs. Musal then added . . . "I also believe that it will only be through a united effort that the fifteen agencies of the Community Chest will be able to bring their help to those who are in need."

Long active in many aspects of the community, Mrs. Musal and her husband Ted, an electric heat sales brings to the Ulster County representative for the Central Community Chest a wealth of Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation in fund raising for their two children, Deborah, a zations. 'Pacification' Covers a Lot of Ground at Firebase HAU DUC, Vietnam (AP) — The word "pacification" covers a lot of ground in Hau Duc. Two years ago, when Maj. Nguyen Van Thanh and his U.S. adviser, Capt. David Spencer, first arrived at the firebase here, the Viet Cong set up a loudspeaker in the village and demanded they surrender. The pair wasn't to be deterred. A few days later when Viet Cong snipers were taking potshots into the base from a nearby hill, Thanh rounded up 140 of the Regional Force troops he had inherited from the previous commander and set out to drive them away. Spencer recalls the scene: "We got to the bottom of the hill, and the men stopped. They wouldn't go any farther. The major told them there were only three VC at the most up there and there were 140. But they still wouldn't move." So Thanh started climbing, followed only by Spencer and the major's houseboy. "We got up on the hill and found the VC had run away," Spencer says. "Then the RF's came up and they were so damned ashamed we never had any trouble with the soldiers again." Two months after that incident, Hau Duc was attacked by a regimental-strength enemy force. Fifty defenders were killed. But others held ground and the North Vietnamese withdrew, leaving 314 dead.

That was in September 1968, and not a mortar round, not even a rifle shot, has been fired into Hau Duc since, the major claims. He insists there's not a North Vietnamese soldier within 10 miles. No one is really sure why the place hasn't been attacked. Thanh insists the Viet Cong are afraid of him and his "psychology of the masses." Hau Duc is one of the first and biggest refugee resettlement towns in the northernmost 1st Military Region. It has seven schools and a dispensary, making it the type of showcase "pacification" project that the Communist command ordinarily would like to disrupt.

The village is tightly organized. Normally, one-third of its people work in the fields, protected by another one-third who either are standing guard by the paddies or out on ambush. The remaining one-third does common labor. They work on the new dispensary, help carry tin for the roofs, or clean up. But everyone works.

Street Mission Is Ended

BOSTON (AP) — The Rev. Paul Shanley, Boston's "street priest" the last four years, has given up walking his beat.

"It was the only thing I could do to keep my sanity," Father Shanley said in an interview. "I couldn't hack it any more."

Shaggy-haired, hippie-garbed and sometimes bearded, Father Paul, as he is called by those who know him, was a familiar figure wherever runaways gathered in Boston. They were his flock, these "street kids," youngsters who had left their homes and turned, for the most part, to drugs.

The controversial 39-year-old priest, assigned by Cardinal Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, to work with runaways, considered his unorthodox dress and appearance his tools.

"I adopted the dress of my people," he said.

He has been off the streets now for almost seven weeks, at his own request.

"There wasn't anything more I could do for the kids," he said.

"The first year we reconciled a lot of the kids," Father Shanley said. "The second year we were able to keep them on soft drugs, off the killers. Last year we could only keep them alive. This year we couldn't even do that."

"I can't watch any more what society's doing to its kids," he added. "I feel like a father whose son is about to be killed by a bus. It's bad enough to know it's going to happen without having to watch it happen."

At the moment Father Shanley is still technically assigned to his street mission. But he is doing nothing specific, awaiting a talk with the Most Rev. Huberto S. Medeiros, newly appointed archbishop of Boston, who will replace Cardinal Cushing early next month.

While working on the streets, Father Shanley would often talk to as many as 30 youngsters in a night. He would stalk their hangouts during the late evening and early morning hours.

"We just wanted to get them off the streets, give them a place to crash (sleep) for the night," he said.

On Threshold Of Unraveling Many Secrets

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Man is on the threshold of unraveling the secrets of his origin, his destiny and even his possible evolutionary role as the bearer of life or intelligence to the solar system.

That's the view of Dr. Thomas O. Paine, who stepped down Sept. 15 as head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) during two years of its most historic achievements.

"Before this century is out, we may have new answers to these questions," Paine said in his last speech as NASA administrator. "Our range and precision of observation is increasing rapidly, both outward into the vast cosmos, and inward into the intricate molecules of living organisms."

"We are moving closer to an understanding of man's place in the violent universe as the tangled mysteries of molecular biology are being unraveled, and as the laws governing the evolution of stars and planets are being established by astronomical observations from earth and from orbit."

Paine said a primary objective of the nation's future space program is to join the "two great pathways of science"—the disciplines of the evolution of the cosmos and of biological One of the biggest questions to be solved is whether life exists elsewhere.

"Is there no other planet circling one of the hundred billion other stars in our galaxy, or a star in one of the 10 billion other galaxies visible in our telescopes, where conditions also favored the spawning of our basic molecular structure?"

"It seems incredible that we alone would have made the step to intelligent life," Paine said.

"There must surely be vast numbers of other worlds with similar life forms based on molecular systems like ours, and even perhaps different life forms based on other complex molecular systems evolving in very different environments."

He said the principal aim of America's space program's big goals this decade is to send automated spacecraft to every planet in the solar system in an attempt to solve some of the mysteries that have long puzzled earth will carry life detection instruments to Mars in 1976.

Ulster Sewer Program: Set for Spring Start

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

TOWN OF ULSTER
The long-heralded $4.5 million sewer improvement project for the Town of Ulster requires completion of drawings for the proposed sewer treatment plant, and the timetable for start of the program has been extended to early spring of 1971.

Supervisor Carmine Sabino said that as soon as the drawings are completed by J. Kenneth Fraser and Associates, consulting engineers of Rensselaer, it will require another four months for the advertising of bids, review of the bids received and the eventual groundbreaking.

The proposed treatment plant will be located on a 10-acre tract to be acquired along the Esopus Creek in the area approximately 4,000 feet south of the Kingston by-pass.

The treatment plant will be constructed in stages, with the first stage to be constructed when the original installations are made. It will have a capacity of .85 million gallons per day. The treatment plant is expected to cost $944,000 and the collection system is estimated at $3,584,000.

The financial arrangements for the project are moving along satisfactorily. Supervisor Sabino said. Funds from a bond issue now assured will total $4,280,000. State and federal aid, if all stipulations are met will total $1,014,300. Of this sum $963,000 has already been allocated.

A federal grant of $513,000, or 30 per cent of the amount of the project eligible was announced late in May. A short time earlier, the state under the Pure Waters Authority also granted 30 per cent toward the project. The Town of Ulster will receive another 10 per cent on the basis of the state grant which had to be at least 25 per cent to be eligible for the federal bonus.

The project planned includes installation of approximately 134,000 feet of gravity sewer lines, 8 inch through 21 inch in size and construction of primary and secondary treatment plant.

There will be two sewage pumping stations, one to serve the Orlando Street area and another for a portion of Parish Lane.

Based on 70 per cent state and federal aid, which is now possible, it is estimated that the cost for debt service charges would be approximately $33.35 per $1,000 of assessed valuation and $16.80 per thousand for operation and maintenance expenses. This is based on a total assessed valuation of the proposed area this year of $7.2 million. The growth rate for the ensuing years has been estimated at $200,000, this in 1971.

the assessed valuation should be about $7.4 million.

The state under the Pure Water Authority program provides an incentive toward achieving maximum performance for treatment facilities and this amounts to one-third of the annual operation and maintenance costs of the treatment facility. This could conceivably lower the $16.80 per thousand estimated for operation and maintenance costs.

The project will service about 1,580 families within the boundaries of the sewer improvement area.

Some residents have questioned the fact that it will be mandatory for all residents to hook into the line when installed, within 90 days, if their property is within 100 feet of the line. It was pointed out by town officials that hooking up is mandatory and that this was no secret. It was understood all along as the sewer cost figures were based on maximum usage.

It was further stressed that all connecting lines from the sewer line in the street to the property owner's building must be installed by the property owner at his cost. There will be no permit fees charged for hooking up the first year. However, thereafter a permit fee for hooking up will be charged.

There are three classes of permits, for residential, for commercial and for service to establishments producing industrial wastes, at $15, $20 and $100 respectively. This fee is charged one time, for hooking up.

As some schools and individual property owners did not wish to hook up to the system, town officials asked for a ruling from the Association of Towns which advised that no exceptions be made and that tie-in be mandatory.

The easement originally sought by the town from the state for installation of one sewer line along Albany Avenue Extension was declined because it would have meant patching at every point where a property owner hooked up to the sewer line and would have created a patch quilt of the entire Albany Avenue Extension strip for four miles. After reconsideration it was decided to install a sewer line on each side of the highway for more convenience and more economical hookup. The original plan would have been feasible if the state planned to resurface Albany Avenue Extension within a reasonable time.

after installation of the sewer lines. Patching the highway at every entry point would have been more costly in the long run and would have left the highway with a patch quilt effect.

As to the matter of IBM's sewage treatment plant offered to the town, the engineers after careful consideration deter-

Study Enacted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House has announced President Nixon's approval of legislation providing $50,000 for a one-year study on the feasibility of establishing a national lakeshore along Lake Tahoe in California and Nevada.

The new law calls for devising "alternative means of restoring and preserving the values inherent in the area under present ownership patterns" to protect the natural and recreational features of the famous lake.

mined that it was too small for use in the system and would not offer any economical advantages.

In the matter of the bonding, it was decided to retire the bonds over a 40-year period to broaden the cost and not create an undue hardship to the property owner if the 20-year term were employed. This will also spread the cost over 40 years and new users of the sewer facility will also bear the burden of the initial cost.

The use of the assessment formula instead of the front-footage formula was determined by the engineers after considerable study. The assessment formula was used because of the predominant commercial aspect of the property in the town. Farmers and owners of large tracts of undeveloped lands which would not be using the sewer system would be forced to pay excessive charges and would not benefit from the sewer facility. If and when these lands are improved and the assessments subsequently raised, they would then carry the same burden as the homeowner and in addition would have to pay a hookup permit fee.

The front footage formula is used mainly when the district involved is generally housing developments where the size of the home is generally tied in with the size of the lot.

Youth-in-Government Plans Underway

KINGSTON The Ulster County Legislature's Recreation and Youth Committee, chaired by Legislator S. Robert Kelder, and assisted by Legislators Melvin Mones and Clifford Snyder, is formulating plans for a Youth-in-Government program simulating county and local government. Several Ulster County schools are considering the program which is suitable for junior and senior high schools.

The next planning meeting for the Youth-in-Government will be tonight at 7:30 p.m. on the fifth floor of the County Office Building, Kingston. All Ulster County high schools are invited to participate. A similar program has been successfully organized in Orange County for over 27 years. The program was described to the members of the Youth and Recreation Committee and several Ulster County social studies teachers in late spring by Mrs. Amy Bull Christ, district superintendent of schools for Orange County.

Designed for the first semester, the program encourages student participation in the two-party system in both elective and legislative processes. A full day convention in October will approve party candidates and platforms for the county contests. Local platforms and candidates will be adopted in each participating school. A week of county and school-wide campaigning will take place in early December. Successful candidates will serve as county and local officials in the spring. Serving as elected officials, students will have an opportunity to voice constructive opinions on a variety of issues facing Ulster County or their town.

The total of $400,000 was split up in this manner: top prize to John Laiello; $10,000 second prize to Marie Ruth K. Smith and George Peter Smith of Brooklyn; $5,000 third prize to Blue Witkoff and A. Lieberman of Long Beach, N. Y.; and $500 fourth prizes to 11 other entrants.

The remaining 1,295 slips in the drum each will receive $100.

Ellenville Library Plans Completed

ELLENVILLE Negotiations with a Poughkeepsie architectural firm for plan designs for a new public library for Ellenville have been completed, according to Milton P. Townsend, president of the Ellenville Public Library and Museum Board of Trustees.

reasons for construction of a new library. The present library quarters, partially owned and partially rented from the Women's Christian Temperance Union, are located on Canal Street in Ellenville. The new structure will also be located on Canal Street, about two blocks west of the present site.

Because of the existing cramped facilities of the library and museum, noted Townsend, the library has been unable to accommodate growth in materials, media and patrons. Additionally, the lack of space has hampered the scheduling of discussion groups, film programs and speakers.

The services of architect Albert R. Mauri of Turley, Stieva, Walker, Mauri and Associates have been obtained and work on preliminary plans for the new structure are expected to begin immediately. The contracting of an architectural firm came less than one week after it was announced that the Resnick family of Ellenville had donated land within the village for the site of a new library. The building will be constructed as a memorial to the late congressman, Joseph Y. Resnick.

No Progress In Talks on Dutchess Strike

WAPPINGERS FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) —No progress was reported Tuesday in an eight-hour negotiating session between the Wappingers Central School District and striking teachers. Another session was scheduled for today.

A school board spokesman said the main issue was salary. However, when the teachers struck last Friday, they said the focus issue was that classes were too large for proper instruction.

The strike has officially lasted two days. Tuesday and today were declared to be superintendents' conference days by the board with all classes cancelled and Thursday and Friday are the Jewish holidays.

More than 600 of the district's 740 teachers have joined the strike. The district has 14,000 pupils in 10 elementary, two high and two junior high schools.

The strike was approved by the Wappingers Central School Faculty Association and members of the Wappingers Federation of Teachers respected picket lines.

Quinn-Lambert Nuptials Announced

Miss Sharon Margaret Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Quinn Sr. of 200 Washington Street, Saratoga, formerly of Saugerties and Kingston, became the bride of Genaro L. Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Lambert of 1 South East Street, Saratoga Springs, Saturday, Sept. 26 at St. Peter's Church, Saratoga.

The Rev. William Ryan officiated at the ceremony. Eileen Hayner, organist, accompanied Vicky Shea who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of white gladioli decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of satin faille, fashioned with an empire bodice and long sleeves accented with lace appliques and seed pearl embroidery. The gown featured a chapel train. Her silk illusion veil was shirred to a stylized headpiece of petals edged with seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of white pompons and white sweetheart roses.

Miss Barbara Lynn Quinn was maid of honor for her sister in a violet gown of chiffon over taffeta, styled with a scooped neckline, long sleeves, featuring a wattleau back train accented with embroidery. A matching floral headpiece held her veil and she carried a colonial bouquet of white pompons.

Attendants were Patricia Williams, cousin of the bride, Saratoga; Joanne Lambert, sister of the bridegroom, Saratoga; and Rita Brink of Saugerties. Their orchid gowns were fashioned identically to that of the honor attendant's. They wore matching orchid headpieces and carried colonial bouquets of white pompons.

Deborah Ann Bennett, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore an orchid, floor-length gown, accented with embroidery and lace. A bow with streamers served as her headpiece and she carried a basket of white pompons.

Alphonse Lambert, cousin of the bridegroom, was ringbearer. David Berbonzi of Long Island was best man and ushers were William P. Quinn Jr., Saugerties, brother of the bride; William VanBuren, Ballston Spa; Gary Arpie, Saratoga.

A reception for 255 guests was held at the Casino in Congress Park.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the bride selected an orange and white dress, white coat, orange accessories, and a pumpkin colored corsage of daisy pompons.

The bride, a graduate of Saugerties High School is a former employee of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Kingston, and now works for Daw's Rite Aid in Saratoga.

Her husband, an alumnus of St. Peter's Academy in Saratoga, served four years in the U.S. Navy and attended school while in service. He is employed by Collin's Construction Company in Albany.

They will reside at 213 Beekman Street, Saratoga.

RVCS Teacher Julia Nucci Receives Honor

Julia Nucci of Highland has been selected to appear in the 1970 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America. A kindergarten teacher at the Rosendale Elementary School in the Rondout Valley Central School District, Miss Nucci was nominated for the honor last spring by the Highland P.T.A. and recently received notification of her selection.

Now in its sixth year, the publication chooses young women between the ages of 21 and 35 from all over the United States on the basis of their service to others, charitable and community activities, and professional recognition. Nominations are made by women's groups, church and community organizations, and by college alumnae associations.

A 1967 graduate of the State University College at New Paltz, Miss Nucci holds a B.S. degree and is presently a candidate for a Master's degree at New Paltz. In addition to her regular teaching duties, she taught in a Title III summer program in the Poughkeepsie City School District and has done clerical work in the Poughkeepsie Department of Social Services. In 1968 she received a certificate of recognition from the Urban-Core-City Project of the Poughkeepsie City School District. For the past 2 summers she has been a counselor on the Wagons West Tours conducted by Rosendale Principal E. Robert Fuhr.

Miss Nucci belongs to several professional organizations, including the National Education Association, the New York State Teachers Association, and the Rondout Valley Teachers Association; she is a member of the latter's Executive Committee this year and is Building Representative from the Rosendale School. Outside of school-oriented activities, she has been an advisor for the Youth Organization and of the Up With Christ Teen Program (a non-secular religious education program), both in Highland, and has chaperoned various activities of the Highland Teen Organization.

As one of the originators of the Cathryn Mackey Kidney Transplant Fund in 1968, Miss Nucci was instrumental in helping raise $24,000 to help her friend's operation. One of the major events in the fund-raising drive was a radiothon conducted over a Poughkeepsie station. Miss Nucci worked extensively on the organization and planning of the radiothon.

"I am very surprised and of course, greatly pleased with the honor," Miss Nucci said. In addition to the 1970 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America, she will receive a gold charm engraved "OYW". She is also eligible for selection as the Outstanding Young Woman of New York State.

B'nai B'rith Women's Club

A wine-tasting party conducted by Miss Kathy Camby of the Wine Institute highlighted the September 23 meeting of Zephaniah Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women. Members and guests were treated to snacks and samplings of various wines.

The regular business portion of the meeting was conducted by Mrs. David Gally, president of the group. Mrs. Sam Barnovitz and Mrs. Harvey Kronick served as the chapter delegates. Several awards of merit were presented to the Chapter. Mrs. Samuel Barnovitz received a citation for the excellent meeting of financial goals during her administration 1969-70. Mrs. Herbert Powell, chapter treasurer, and Mrs. Joseph Murkoff, financial secretary, also received certificates of merit for their respective positions.

During the meeting, Mrs. Edwin Kalish reported on the various philanthropies of B'nai B'rith which include the Children's Home in Israel and the Martyr's Forest in Israel. Those wishing to donate to these causes may do so by contacting Mrs. Kalish.

Mrs. Seymour Werbalowsky announced that an Anti-Defamation League Appeal Luncheon, honoring Mrs. Arnold Pinsly, a former Kingston resident and now president of B'nai B'rith Women District One, will be held at Grossinger's on Oct. 14. Guest speaker will be Arnold Forster, General Counsel of the Anti-Defamation League. All members of Zephaniah Chapter are urged to attend.

Those interested in bus transportation to Grossinger's should contact Mrs. Robert Ronder.

Mrs. Charles Johnson, vice president, announced that the group will be holding a rummage sale on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 5, 6, 7, at 38½ John Street. Mrs. C. Ross Ellis and Pearl Adin are in charge of the benefit. Those who wish to donate merchandise may leave it at the store on Sunday morning Oct. 4 or on Oct. 5. Future fund-raising plans include a food festival to be held on Dec. 6.

The entire meeting was under the direction of Mrs. Massie Mehl, program vice-president, and her assistants, Mrs. Nathan Borsky and Mrs. Stephen Scher. Mrs. David Weinstein introduced the new members and guests and Mrs. Gerald Feit was in charge of hospitality.

HINTS from HELOISE

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise: Those felt-tipped marking pens have a lot more uses than most people realize. . . . I was redecorating a bathroom recently and had a lovely shower curtain that I just couldn't work into a suitable color scheme. It was green with white designs and I had new green and yellow towels and a yellow bath mat. The colors, however, just didn't go together the way I wanted.

So I used one of these yellow pens to color some of the white designs in the curtain. The color adhered beautifully to the plastic and is permanent, so there's no fear of water damage. And the effect is so striking that I'm getting compliments.

Mrs. C. S. Jackson

Well, I say "thanks" to Mrs. Jackson for a stunning idea.

Dear Heloise: You know how wonderful florist clay is for arrangement of all sorts, as well as many other uses. . . . but how difficult it is to remove the clay from vases, dishes, etc.

Well, a small piece of cotton soaked with polish remover will do the trick. Just rub away and every tiny bit comes off almost immediately. Comes off your fingers, too!

Mrs. R. Metzger

Dear Heloise: Are you forever fumbling in your purse for your keys? Perhaps you are more organized, but my purse is a mess!

I finally had enough of this, so I took one of those gummed picture hangers and pasted it onto the side of my everyday purse.

Now I simply "hang up" my keys and no more hunt and search. Away I go!

Mrs. A. Torcivia

Dear Heloise: After finishing my dishes each evening, I run about an inch of water in both sides of my sink, put a little detergent powder in each and put my dish cloth in one side and my dish towel in the other.

By the time I have my kitchen tidied up, they both are white as snow and so is my sink without using a harsh, abrasive powder on it. Just rinse your cloth and towels a couple of times, hang them on your towel bars and they are spotless for your next meal.

Lu Mosiman

Dear Heloise: After reading your hint about putting powdered coffee cream in a plastic catsup bottle, I saved another such bottle and put my sugar in it. The only difference is that I cut the opening larger than I did the one for coffee cream.

Now I keep a pair of these plastic bottles on my breakfast table where they are in constant use.

Lucy

Dear Heloise: When serving trays to people in bed, place the dishes on paper napkins that have been sprinkled with a few drops of water.

This makes the dishes non-slip and is most helpful to the bedridden.

Janet E.

Dear Heloise: To store more than one kind of cookie in the same jar, put each kind in a plastic bag and secure it with a wire fastener or a rubber band. This will keep the flavors from interchanging.

Mrs. H. Lunnon

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise: I have an M.D. after my name. No, I'm not a doctor—that M.D. means "Must Diet!"

Grace F.

Dear Heloise: For those who take only half a capsule of medication at a time:

For every capsule you get, ask your druggist for that many empty ones. They are very easy to pull apart and you can then empty half of a capsule into an empty one and you won't ever get the bitter taste of the contents.

Reader

Dear Heloise: I was making a salmon sandwich, and as I can't use salad dressing or mayonnaise, pickles or condiments of any kind, here's what I did:

I spread a gelatin dessert (that had set) on the bread, and let me tell you, that salmon-gelatin sandwich was delicious!

I used cherry gelatin this time, but lemon is equally as good.

Grace Forness

My daughter's favorite "sammich" has always been a flavored gelatin one—but I'd say that yours has more "meat" to it!

L. Robertson, vice chairman, Board of Governors, the Federal Reserve System; Mrs. Mary T. Brooks, Director of the Bureau of the Mint, Senator Charles H. Percy and Representatives Leonore K. Sullivan and Wilbur D. Mills.

Delegates attended a special congressional reception where they met with various members of Congress. They also toured the White House and met personally with Mrs. Nixon.

NABW has been particularly active in the field of education providing scholarships to graduate schools of banking for qualified members. It has worked to attract young women into the banking field and to encourage them to improve their technical and professional skills.

Red Schoendienst May Set Managerial Record

THEY'RE STILL PLAYING — Chicago Cubs' Paul Popovich (22) is forced at second as Mets' Ken Boswell tosses to first to complete double play on Paul Hiatt at fifth inning of game in New York City yesterday. Mets won, 3-1, to give them a one game lead over the Cubs for second place in the National League East. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Red Schoendienst will set a record with the St. Louis Cardinals if he completes the 1971 contract he signed Tuesday.

By serving as the Cardinal manager for the coming year, Schoendienst will hold the longest record at that post, breaking the record set by Branch Rickey, who served from the start of the 1919 season through June 1, 1925 — a period of six years, one month and 19 days.

General Manager Bing Devine also announced that coaches George Kissell and Vern Benson have signed for next year and that the contracts of pitching coach Billy Muffett and hitting coach Dick Sisler are not being renewed. Replacements for the two have not been selected.

Schoendienst, 47, has guided the Cardinals to two National League pennants and one world championship during his six years as manager.

Under Schoendienst, the Cardinals finished seventh in the National League in 1965, sixth in 1966, first in 1967 and 1968 and fourth in the East Division in 1969. They defeated the Boston Red Sox in the 1967 World Series, and lost to the Detroit Tigers in the 1968 series.

Schoendienst was a player-coach with the Cardinals in 1962 and 1963, but concentrated solely on coaching in 1963. He replaced Johnny Keane as Cardinal manager in October, 1964.

Kissell, 50, joined the Cardinal coaching staff two years ago and Benson, 46, replaced Bob Milliken on the staff last July.

Both had served in the Cardinals' minor league system.

Muffett, who pitched for the Cardinals, San Francisco Giants and Boston Red Sox, has been the Cards' pitching coach for the last four years. Sisler, who managed the Cincinnati Reds in 1965, has been the Cardinals' hitting coach for the last five years.

Rookie May Puts the Rap on Bob Gibson

By The UPI

Milton May was a bit awed by Bob Gibson but he didn't show him much respect.

"It was quite a thrill," the 20-year-old rookie said Tuesday night after he got his first chance to see the 34-year-old veteran who is expected to win his second Cy Young Award for being the National League's best pitcher this season.

"I saw him before on TV but I'd never seen him pitch in person," May said.

May, who was recently called up from Columbus by Pittsburgh and isn't eligible for the playoffs, got his good look at Gibson when he was sent up as a pinch-hitter against the St. Louis righthander with the bases loaded and one out in the eighth inning and the score tied 1-1. This looked like an overmatch if there ever was one. Gibson, a 23-game winner this season, was making his final appearance of the 1970 season and he wasn't likely to lose to a rookie who had only one major league hit to his credit.

But May slammed a two-run double to start a four-run rally that gave the Pirates a 7-2 victory over the Cardinals and saddled Gibson with his seventh defeat. Gibson did manage to strike out seven Pirates to set a club record of 274 for the season but it was little consolation since he was deprived of his 24th triumph.

"His fastball was up to the expectations," May said. "I planned to take the first pitch to check the speed but he threw it by me before I knew it was coming. This was only my first second hit and my first RBI. The pitch he threw me on a 3-2 count was a fastball up and in. He was putting them all up and in. It was a strike."

May, who was selected in the free agent draft in 1968, batted .277 in 111 games with 21 homers and 88 RBIs at Columbus.

In the other NL games, New York downed Chicago 3-1, Atlanta edged Cincinnati 2-1, Montreal downed Philadelphia 10-3.

Houston nipped San Francisco 3-1 and Los Angeles routed San Diego 8-2.

Jerry Koonsman's seven-hitter and Donn Clendenon's two-run double in the first inning lifted New York past Chicago. The Mets now need one victory in their last two games with the Cubs to clinch second in the East. A crowd of 26,832 boosted the Mets' home attendance to 2,642,270 — second in major league history only to the 1962 Los Angeles Dodger total of 2,755,184.

The Mets would have broken the record if they were still in the race since the four games with the Cubs this week were sellouts but many fans didn't show up since the Pirates clinched the NL East Sunday. The Dodgers moved into second place by .003 in the West over San Francisco by .003.

downing San Diego as Maury Wills singled in two runs during the four-run sixth inning.

Denis Menke's sinking liner fell just under the glove of luncheon Willie Mays for a two-run triple in the third inning and powered Houston past San Francisco, which is in danger of breaking its second place streak. The Giants have finished second the last five years.

Twenty-year-old Mike McQueen pitched a seven-hitter as Atlanta edged Cincinnati. He also singled in the Braves' first run in the two-run seventh.

Winning pitcher Steve Renko went on to rout Philadelphia, 6-1, in the third inning before he left with a hip injury and Renko went 6 1/3 innings before Mike Marshall finished up.

Early Returns Indicate Ganders Team to Beat

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON A fine 19-14 victory by the Ganders of Rondout Valley over powerful Highland, topped an outstanding scholastic football schedule last weekend. In other exciting contests, Saugerties Downed Arlington, 32-28 and New Paltz defeated Marlboro, 33-0. Onteora beat Wallkill, 38-8, while Pine Bush nipped Liberty, 8-0. Ellenville tied Jeffersonville, 8-8 and Pine Plains demolished Red Hook, 32-15.

The Ganders-Highlanders match was a key one and will go a long way in deciding the championship of the Ulster County Athletic League. Rondout fell behind early in the game, 8-0, on a run by Perry Monroe and a two-point conversion by Doug Geer.

The Ganders came right back with a 55-yard pass from George Wallack to All-UCAL receiver Bruce Burr. The PAT was missed. Highland again went the length of the field with Monroe scoring and had a 14-6 lead at halftime.

Highland Game Exciting

Highland, always tough, always exciting, wanted this game bad but ran out of steam in the heat and humidity. Rondout kept fighting back, and, thanks to some fine playing by the second string linemen and backs, managed to have a lot left in the final stages of the tilt.

Depth was the answer here as Rondout Coach John "Mickey" Million was able to rest backs Mike Alecca and Bill Parete with Mike Harris and Scott Smith without a loss of effectiveness. Hyler Van Wageningen also filled in admirably at quarterback for Wallack.

Parete did yeoman's work and needed the short respites that Smith provided him with.

When his number was called, as it often was in the second half, Parete responded with a performance worthy of an All-American as he slashed through a tough Highlander defense for two scores and the game. The blocking by Dennis Baney and Ron Hall never broke down and defensive lineman Buford Wood rose to the occasion in the second half inspiring his teammates to halt the charge of the losers.

Both teams knew what this game might mean and wanted it badly. As Highland Coach Lem Atkins said after the tilt: "I guess they wanted it a little more than we did. We were beaten by a better football team."

Word on Wallack

A quick word on Gander quarterback George Wallack. The scouting reports had it that he can't throw the ball. How wrong they were as George dropped back, feinted right and threw left, threading the needle to Burr, who had two defenders on him. The play covered 55 yards and scored the first Gander TD. Wallack is a fine field general, with a quick mind and a good set of hands. He is an inspirational leader and keeps his team up. He reminds one of Joe Kapp in his desire to win and do his best.

He instills confidence in his teammates and never lets up. At one point in the tilt, during a very important drive, Wallack was faced with a fourth and about three yards. He needed the first down to keep the drive alive. The coaching staff was a little hesitant. They trailed 14-12 with about five minutes remaining.

Wallack called time out and came to the sidelines to talk it over with the coaches. Million asked George if he thought he could make it. George said there was no question about it. So, Million went along with him and Wallack and Company got the needed first down. Parete scored the go-ahead TD later on that drive.

Koegel Stars

Rich Koegel, who would probably like to be identified as himself, not the brother of Penn State All-American Warren or major league baseball player, Steve, came into his own Saturday as an outstanding high school quarterback as he fired four TD passes, three to Ray Bean, to defeat Arlington.

Koegel, a junior, unlimbered his arm for 16 completions in 25 attempts and 225 yards a performance worthy of Joe Willie himself. If Koegel can keep up that type of play he will be able to make up for some of the Sawyers' defensive shortcomings.

Ford Tells All

New Paltz Coach John Ford told everybody within ear-shot that his team was going to defeat Marlboro. Since Ford has taken over the reins, the Hugenots have shown themselves to be vastly improved and a force to be reckoned with in the UCAL.

Tailback Harold Anderson appears to be realizing his potential and tallied two touchdowns. Bill Schiller added two more and quarterback Jay Ackert completely befuddled the Dukes' defense with his outstanding play-calling, ball-handling and running.

Onteora Uprising

Like the mythical bird, the Phoenix, rising out of its own ashes, comes the Indians of Onteora. Onteora, in the throes of a rebuilding year having missed the entire schedule two years ago due to an austerity budget, has won its first two games of the year in convincing fashion.

Coach Larry Karas credits the defense with much of the early success, and rightfully so. Only now, many fans and observers isn't that far behind the offense and if that's the case, UCAL opponents beware.

Halfback Chuck Lemon leads the offense when the Indians go on the warpath. Lemon is a newcomer to varsity ball at Onteora and has already made his mark, scoring four touchdowns in the first two games.

Vlad Hoyt and Dan Brown give Karas exceptional depth at the quarterbacking spot. Reserve halfback Britt St. John admirably compliments the other starters John Langling and Wayne Fredericks.

Scism Leads Boosters With 642-248 Scores

KINGSTON Richard Scism was sharp in recent action in the Standard Furniture Kingston Booster League. Scism put across a 248 solo, then went on to complete a 642 triple. Not too far behind was Wayne Smith with 608 for three games.

Carr's Angels registered a 925 single and Utica Club a 265 triple for team honors.

HOOT GIBSON rides again. Rolling in the Country Squires loop, Hoot fashioned a 230 solo effort on his way to a 558 series.

Two other plus-200 games were reported. Ken Wamsley threw a 203 while Joe Bridges authored a 202.

Oehler's Mt. Lodge recorded the best team triple of the night. John Cutler, Tony Pizzelli, Don Lattot, Gene Marynowski and Gibson combined for a 2315.

FRED LINNARTZ showed the youngsters how it's done when he came up with scores of 224 and 222 and a 615 triple in the Father and Son League. Not to be outdone, Fred McFee came in with 614 on the strength of 224 and 201 efforts.

The league had a wealth of good scores. Ray Hull pulled in at 217; Lou Dossi racked up a 212 and a 201; Ed Cunningham carded 206, and Larry McHugh sewed up a 205.

The sons were led by Robert Dossi's 588 series and 210 solo. Tom Miller Jr., rolled a 204 and Chris Schick hit 200 on the button.

JACKIE GLASER hit a high single series in the Bowlerama Quads League of 536. Other high scorers were: Barbara Finch 535, Helen VanKeuren 517; Kathy DeCicco, 513-201; Elinor Burberg, 512; Karen Woodvine, 510-205; Betty Shlightner, 509; 200; Judy Helsey, 508; Lucille Steen, 505; Rose Schatzel, 503. Highest team single was bowled by No. 7.

Eastern States 200 At Orange Speedway

MIDDLETOWN In 1964, the late Ron Lux Rochester, in 1965; Will Cagle, Tampa, Fla., in 1966-68 and Al Tasnady, Vineland, N. J., in 1969.

With all the other speedways closed at this time, all the drivers look to the Orange County Fair Speedway for the last chance to get in the big money column.

Southern drivers that regularly make the trek north for the summer season will be making their last stop before returning to the sunny climes. Emil (Buzzie) Reutimann, Tampa, Fla., who almost won the 1969 edition of the Eastern States, will be trying to wrap up the title before heading home.

ERIC BLACKWELL'S 225-619 were the top marks in the Independent wheel. Thomas Hot Shots paced the team shooting with 940-2737.

HARLAND BELL 192-541 led the men's division of the Sunday Nite Pinbenders. ANN DENISON had 491 and Mildred Pisani 191 in the women's division. Team Three posted highs of 824 and 2318.

RAY RITTER hit a 597 series to lead Gil Martin's to an 899 single and 2546 triple in the Rosendale Merchants League.

BOB McGEE a 579-206 in the Bowlers' Club Monday Mixed. June Adesso led the women with a 467-193.

RICH ROTH fired a 235 game for high single honors and completed a 621 triple to pace the Mid-City Three-Man Classic. Team Three had the high triple score of 1675, while Mech. Uniform Rental had the high single at 605.

GLORIA McLEAN had the high triple in the Earlyettes League with 489. Top team was Harts Amway. They scored a 595 solo and 1660 triple.

PERLA BOLLIN moved into a ninth place tie in the top women's triples tie with a 564 in the Monday Night Mixed division. Perla rolled a 203 on the way and is now deadlocked with Sis Balash on the card of top performances in 1970-71.

HERB PETERSEN linked 223, 228-634 for the No. 1 series in the Summit Classic. Jim Naccarato fired the third highest solo of the season — 268 — and 626; Bud Lowe 248-611, Dave Lowe 211-606, Pete Edelman 267 (tie for 4th) — 200; Judy Helsey, 508; Lucille Steen, 505; Rose Schatzel, 503. KINGSTON The Fighting Maroons of Kingston High travel to Schenectady Saturday for a non-league contest with a powerful Linton High School football team. The game will start at 1:30 p. m.

Linton is 2-0 on this season so far, having defeated Catholic Central, 12-0 and Albany High, 8-0. The homeside hasn't been scored on in two games this season and two last season. They are a powerful, physical team, combining a bruising running game with an unyielding defense.

The Linton "11" likes to use an offense similar to that of Kingston, running out of the pre-set and power triangle.

Kingston may be hurting a little bit, particularly on offense as some key performers have suffered injuries during practice and scrimmage. The locals will definitely be without the services of wing back Mark Snyder, who will be out with a leg injury. Don Lackaye, fine tight end is listed as a doubtful starter, having suffered an injury in a tackling drill.

The biggest blow dealt the locals recently is the fact that Joe Riley, one of the most exciting runners in the Mid-Hudson Valley, maybe out of action this week. Riley twisted an ankle last Wednesday in a scrimmage against the Admirals of Arlington and the swelling has yet to go down all the way. He may, however, see spot action.

Without Riley, Kingston loses its outside, break-away threat. "Little Joe" can go all the way any time he gets his hands on the ball and is also an outstanding receiver.

Glenn Littlefield, junior quarterback touted as a starter at the beginning of the season, is back from injuries suffered in pre-season practice.

Littlefield is a fine passer but, Ralph Perry, who took over for him in the opening game against Troy, impressed the coaching staff and fans

Jim Plunkett Stat Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Senior Jim Plunkett of Stanford has replaced sophomore Sonny Sixkiller of Washington as the national leader in total offense, according to National Collegiate Sports Services.

Plunkett is averaging 302.3 rushing-passing yards a game and ranks fourth on the all-time career list. He needs only 672 yards in his remaining eight regular-season games to reach the top.

Sixkiller, with 148 yards against Michigan, dropped completely out of the top 10 leaders, although he still ranks eighth in passing.

KHS Travels to Schenectady Saturday

Linton Defense Is Rugged

The locals will definitely be without the services of wing back Mark Snyder, who will be out with a leg injury. Don Lackaye, fine tight end is listed as a doubtful starter, having suffered an injury in a tackling drill.

The biggest blow dealt the locals recently is the fact that Joe Riley, one of the most exciting runners in the Mid-Hudson Valley, maybe out of action this week. Riley twisted an ankle last Wednesday in a scrimmage against the Admirals of Arlington and the swelling has yet to go down all the way. He may, however, see spot action.

Without Riley, Kingston loses its outside, break-away threat. "Little Joe" can go all the way any time he gets his hands on the ball and is also an outstanding receiver.

Glenn Littlefield, junior quarterback touted as a starter at the beginning of the season, is back from injuries suffered in pre-season practice.

Littlefield is a fine passer but, Ralph Perry, who took over for him in the opening game against Troy, impressed the coaching staff and fans with his ability to move the club and call the plays. Apparently he is still impressing someone, because Littlefield has not yet been given the green light on the starter's job.

"Ralph has good leadership and play-calling abilities," said coach Tony Badalato. Glenn does throw better, however. We'll just wait and see how the game goes."

Another change in the KHS offense will be at split end where Dennis Harrison has taken over from transfer student Tony Adams. Other than tackling drills, But, these changes and the injuries, price you have to pay."

That was the point at which manager, had to leave one day could kill and didn't say a word. I asked him for the ball

Wally Stewart was pitching again and I could see he was for us and getting hit pretty getting terribly upset. "Look, our defense and tackling," said Badalato. "We looked bad in that part of our game against Troy. That's where all the in-field which will give them an edge. We should be in the dugout. What's one ball game compared with a human life?"

"I stood out there on the mound and thought I've come all this way and now the ball game is gone," Osteen remembers. "I was resigned to coming out and I knew we had Brewer warming up. Walt asked me how I felt and I said okay except my knees were beginning to feel a little stiff. I was sure he was going to take me out. I was wrong. He didn't. All he said was 'you've come this far so you might as well win it or lose it yourself.' The way he said it was unbelievable. The game meant so much to all of us and here he was so perfectly calm and quiet. You can't imagine the feeling a man like that gives the entire ball club simply by being the way he is."

If you're one of those who jumps to the end of the book first to find out in advance how the whole thing comes out then you'd probably like to know Claude Osteen struck out both Tommy Davis and Jim Wynn to lock up that ball game with Houston.

That was a happy ending. For the Dodgers, anyway. Al Schacht, once known as the Clown Prince of Baseball, recalls a not-so-happy ending involving one of those visits to the mound to change a pitcher.

Schacht, a coach with Washington at the time, was left in charge of the club when Bucky Harris, the Senators' regular

"This happened near the end of last season when we were making a good run at first place," Osteen says. "We were one run ahead. Houston had men on first and third with one out in the ninth and Davis and Wynn were coming up. I had struck out both in the same exact situation in the sixth but I had pitched hard since then and I was a little tired."

OPENING DAY ADDRESS — Robert I. White, president of Kent State University, addressed a noon rally on the commons. The campus opened its fall quarter without incident. Last May 4, four students were killed when anti-war demonstrators clashed with national guardsmen. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Suspect Nabbed, Sought by Police

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A bearded, long-haired antiwar activist and former student wanted in a Boston slaying and bank robbery was arrested at his home here Tuesday night.

Michael Saul Fleisher, 21, was arrested as an accessory in the slaying of patrolman Walter A. Schroeder, father of nine. Fleisher was identified by the FBI as a leader in the National Strike Information Center at Brandeis University. Two other persons wanted in the crime were associated with the same strike center.

Shortly before midnight, four FBI agents went to Fleisher's home, knocked on the door and served the warrant. Fleisher was not armed and did not resist.

He was charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution as an accessory after the fact of murder, in a federal warrant issued in Boston Tuesday night. The FBI also said an additional complaint of harboring a fugitive would be lodged against him for putting up Susan Saxe, 21, one of two girls wanted in the case still at large.

Authorities said the FBI told them Fleisher traveled here from Boston in a red Volkswagen fastback with Stanley R. Bond, 26, Cambridge, Mass.; Katherine A. Power, 20, Denver, the other wanted woman; and Miss Saxe, Bond—a Brandeis student—was arrested Sunday at Grand Junction, Colo.

Also charged in the case were William M. Gilday, 41, Amesbury, Mass., captured Monday; and Robert M. Valeri, 21, Somerville, Mass., arrested hours after the holdup.

Koenig Slates Meeting On Salt Pile Controversy

KINGSTON The cost of building silos for up Mayor Francis R. Koenig said to 300 tons of salt could run as high as a million dollars. It has his corporation counsel, Aaron Klein, and representatives contractor build a concrete platform of Joseph Schrowang, operator form for the salt with a roof of the Morton Salt pile on over it.

Tremper Avenue, to discuss moving the operation.

Schrowang has suggested moving the operation to the Barmann Avenue-Wilbur Avenue section of the city but that proposal has met with strong opposition from residents of the area, some 58 of whom signed a petition to that effect and submitted it to Mayor Koenig last Friday.

The mayor's views on the issue mirror those of 13th Ward Alderman Titus B. Sims who suggested last week that the whole operation should be moved out of the city.

Meanwhile, City Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe told The Freeman that the city can require Schrowang to build silos for the salt if it is moved to the new site off Wilbur Avenue.

However, it is understood that

Soviet Nonaggression Pact Rejected by Peking Regime

LONDON (UPI)—The Soviet Union offered Communist China a nonaggression pact and Peking rejected the peace bid out of hand, diplomatic sources said today.

The offer was made during the Sino-Soviet talks in Peking, called to discuss Chinese demands for "rectifications" of the 4,000-mile frontier separating the two Communist powers.

The Chinese claim sizeable sections of Soviet Siberia and Mongolia.

Communist diplomats, reporting the latest development in the festering Sino-Soviet feud, said it was clear the Peking regime of Mao Tse-tung refuses any major pact with the Kremlin. They said the quick, outright refusal of the nonaggression pact followed an earlier rebuttal of a Soviet offer of a sizeable loan of hundreds of millions of dollars to Red China.

The sources said the hard line taken by the Chinese is a sign of how serious Peking is about its territorial claims. What Moscow had suggested was an agreement on the lines of the recent accord concluded with West Germany. It ruled out the use of force or the threat of force in the settlement of disputes between the two nations.

In theory, the Soviet Union and China already have a mutual defense pact signed when they still were close friends and allies. It commits them to mutual assistance in the event of aggression, but the sources said the pact now is considered dead and neither power ever refers to it.

Soviet Communist Party Chief Leonid I. Brezhnev made a new appeal for better relations with China earlier this month when he visited the Russian Far East, but the response was a Peking attack on "criminal schemes plotted by one or two superpowers (Russia and the United States) in their Middle East peace offensive."

Peking undoubtedly noted that while Brezhnev was making friendly overtures his defense minister, Marshal Andrei A. Grechko, visited Mongolia where the Russians have sent strong troop reinforcements and have placed rockets aimed at the western province of Sinkiang, China's key nuclear center.

State Head of Campus Unrest Raps the Federal Emphasis

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The chairman of New York's panel on campus unrest says the commission appointed by President Nixon put "too much emphasis on government as a solution and cure" in its recommendations for easing the crisis at colleges and universities.

"It will require more than action by the President or ending the war in Vietnam to end our campus problems," Assemblyman Charles D. Henderson maintained in an interview Tuesday.

Henderson, a Republican from Hornell who heads the Temporary State Commission to Study the Causes of Campus Unrest, gave this assessment to The Associated Press after analyzing the report by the Presidential Commission on Campus Unrest.

The federal panel, in a report released Saturday, urged all Americans "back from the battle lines into which they are forming." It also called for an end to the war in Vietnam, then quick removal from the campus of any persons who engage in violence, and clear-cut rules for maintaining order at colleges and universities.

Henderson sponsored a bill passed by the 1969 legislatures that requires such regulations in order for institutions of higher learning in New York to be eligible for state funds.

He proposed that education leaders "must share in the responsibility for our government's troubles and for many of our other ills."

"Some educators who are most critical of our government have guided the decisions of government officials who have sought the educators' academic experience and advice," Henderson said.

Thus, he maintain, they must share in the responsibility for the problems the nation now faces.

The state commission reported to Gov. Rockefeller and the legislature last February and is conducting a new round of hearings across the state. It is to submit another report next February and may have an interim analysis before that time.

"We learned in our study," Henderson said, "that what we need most today is the willingness to listen, to care enough to understand and be tolerant of differences of opinion and diverse views. This nation cannot shout its way out of the tragic war in Southeast Asia or our internal hostility. We must find our way out through our system of government."

Henderson also quoted other commission members as saying the presidential panel pretty much followed the lead of the state commission in its report.

Administration in Battle With Welfare Mothers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is locked in battle with an organization of welfare mothers over a new regulation limiting federal education aid to clothe poor children.

The militant National Welfare Rights Organization — NWRO — has appealed directly to Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson for more clothing aid. He promised to answer early next week.

At issue is a Sept. 15 Office of Education directive freezing at a last year's level — three-tenths of one per cent of the total — clothing allowances from the $1.5 billion elementary school aid fund.

Most of the 16,500 school districts receiving aid for disadvantaged school children do not use any of the so-called Title I money for clothing programs. The new order, in effect, prohibits them from starting.

The freeze comes at a time when local NWRO chapters are pressing Title I districts without clothing provisions to include them.

Congress authorized the use of Title I money to buy clothing for poor children "where necessary."

Terrell H. Bell, acting commissioner of education took note of the new clothing demands in the Sept. 15 order, saying, "In a number of states project applications are being received involving greatly increased expenditure of Title I funds for clothing, which if approved, would jeopardize the basic nature of the Title I program. Title I is an education, not a welfare program."

George A. Wiley, NWRO executive director argues, however, "that adequate school clothing is an educational need of the highest priority."

"Children cannot learn if they are not in school," he said. "Without adequate shoes and clothing, many poor kids will not go to school. Other children in ragged clothing will be defeated by the self-image that is radiated in the faces of their more affluent classmates."

Richardson said in an interview he intends to allow districts without clothing programs to begin. He would not say, however, whether the spending ceiling will be lifted.

Dear Abby

Honesty's Best Policy

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-
N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: You frequently recommend psychiatric help, but you never say how to get a person to see a psychiatrist, and that's our problem.

A member of our family needs psychiatric help. (our family physician told us so) but if we mention the word "psychiatrist" she tears the place apart, saying she isn't "crazy." Do you think we could prevail upon a psychiatrist to come to the house and pretend to be just a "friend"—or a regular doctor? That way he could observe the patient, and maybe win her confidence, and then later on treat her? If she knew he was a psychiatrist, she wouldn't even stay in the same room with him.

She likes and trusts the family physician, but HE says he can't do any more for her, she needs a psychiatrist. She refuses to go. Any suggestions?

MEMBER OF THE FAMILY DEAR MEMBER: No reputable psychiatrist would permit himself to be introduced to a patient as a "friend" or even a "regular doctor." When the patient learns that the psychiatrist was part of a plan to trick her, she will lose all confidence in him and I wouldn't blame her. Ask the family physician, whom she likes and trusts, to try to persuade her to see a psychiatrist. Honesty is still the best policy.

DEAR ABBY: Can you please tell me where the custom of kissing a lady's hand originated? And why?

DEAR S.C.: It originated in France. A person has to start somewhere, and I suppose that's as good a place as any.

DEAR ABBY: People have written to say they were offended because they had received gifts which were obviously "used," and they accused the giver of trying to save money.

Whenever I have occasion to give a gift to a cherished friend, I first try to find something among my possessions that I have owned and loved (a small piece of jewelry, a rare old book, a piece of antique silver or china.) I am not trying to save money. I merely want to give something of "mine" which I hope will be considered more precious than a newly purchased item.

Many of the recipients have told me they were deeply touched by such a gift. And I sincerely hope that no one thought me "cheap" or shabby. YOUR HIGGANUM CORRESPONDENT DEAR CORRESPONDENT: I agree. A cherished item from one's own personal collection of treasures makes a far more precious gift than a newly purchased item. But there are those materialistic dolts around who regard an antique as a white elephant—whose giver is trying to get off for "peanuts."

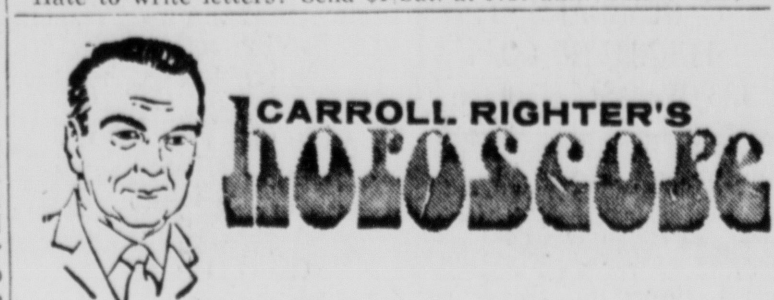

DEAR ABBY: A widower wrote in to say that he had arranged for a little pleasure with a female companion at a local hotel and was very much surprised when the daughter of a friend knocked on his door. I would like to ask the gentleman, "Whose daughter did you expect?"

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine day and evening to make long-range plans where others of importance to you are concerned. Discuss how to coordinate your joint efforts in a more satisfactory manner. Fine also for social events.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make new arrangements with associates that will cement better relations and bring greater happiness. Show true spirit of cooperation. Study more for greater success in the future.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Sit down early with co-workers and talk over how to make your joint labors more profitable and smoother-running. Save yourself much energy by planning ahead. Good for improving appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can delight others today by doing charming and helpful things for them. Apply more effort to that creative talent and you get better results. Don't be intrusive, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Conditions at home can be improved to suit you now. Buy gadgets that increase efficiency. Avoid small-minded persons who irritate you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Praise associates more, and they will go along willingly with your ideas. Do necessary buying or selling and write letters. Avoid repetition.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use common sense methods in work and you will make a good impression on bigwigs. Take measures to improve value of property and show pride of ownership.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Decide what you really want from people, especially in your personal life. Go out socially and you will make headway. Stop being so reticent, self-effacing and recognize your inner greatness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Start preparing now for new arrangements you want to make. Closet yourself where you can concentrate. Giving advice to some one you are fond of who asks for it is wise. Save that person from some real trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Taking as much time as you can to be with good friends makes possible some wonderful benefits in the days ahead. You know exactly what it is you want and can pursue it successfully. Talking too much is not good.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to make big headway in the business world now, so get busy early. Keep all appointments and be on time. Having an A-1 credit rating is important. Planning that little trip is best in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you think about big things, you will find yourself making more effort to attain them. A new interest or two can add verve to your life. Stay on the practical side, though.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't forget to buy some thoughtful gift for one you like. Those small tasks that have accumulated can now be run through with alacrity and efficiency. Get rid of them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those delightful young people that everyone dotes on. This progeny can stand on his or her own two feet. A fine career can be had if encouragement is given to study and prepare for it. Otherwise the life might be a wasted one. The field of entertainment would be ideal, as well as that of religion, law, the government—anything that requires precision and tact. Give extra advantages, if possible.

WHY WE SAY

BEAUTY

GOOD: Something delightful to the eye might be termed as being beautiful. The word can be traced from the Latin word "bonus" or "bonus" for good. So beauty is a form of goodness.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

FATHER SAW: (Q.) The other night I ripped an old bathing suit trying it on. I started yelling. My father came to the door of my room. I didn't have a bra or any kind of top on. When I saw him, I lolled at him not to come in, that I wasn't dressed.

This made him mad and he came right over to me, and slapped me. It made me cry, and now I cry every time I think about it.

Is it all right for him to walk in on me like that just because he's my father? I'm 14—Modest in Lubbock, Tex. (A.) Fathers should be awake to their daughters' modesty as they develop. They should respect this modesty. And daughters should respect their fathers for doing so.

Daughters can also help by closing the doors of their bedrooms or bathrooms while dressing or undressing. This helps fathers, brothers, and others not to see what they don't need to see.

BRISTLES: (Q.) I don't know why I did it, but I did. I shaved my legs. I know girls shave their legs, but not boys. Now the hair is very coarse and black. It sticks out like stubble. What can I do?

If I let it grow back, it will be very long. None of the other boys my age (13) have such long, black hair on their legs. It is terribly embarrassing. My legs look like they belong to a 16-year-old—Harry in Norwich, Conn.

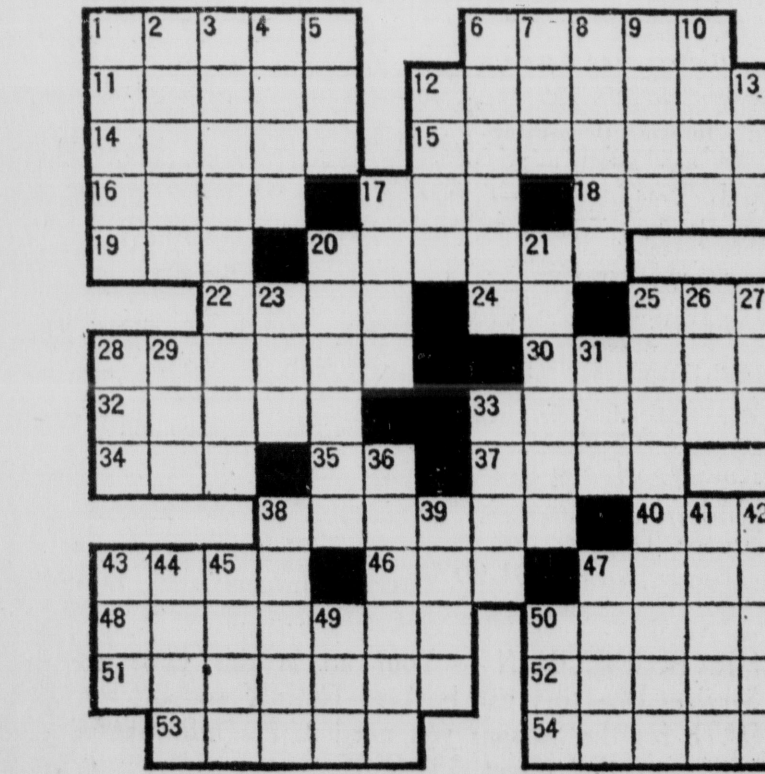

(A.) You shouldn't have shaved your legs. But there is no call to be so concerned about it. Let it grow back and very soon it will return to its original length and softness. It won't be longer than it was before.

Don't be ashamed of hair on your legs, arms and body. It's one of the first signs that you're turning into a man. Your friends probably wish theirs was as noticeable as yours.

Selective Perception of News

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Commenting on the much-discussed question of the content of violence in television news programming, Elmer Lower, boss of ABC news, has said:

"After the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago, I personally screened videotapes of all our Chicago convention coverage and I found that by actual minute-and-second count, only 1.1 per cent of our total coverage of the Democratic convention was devoted to film or tape of disorders involving the police and dissenters."

"I suspect," he added, "that many of our critics suffer from severe cases of selective perception. For an opponent of a position to see a supporter on the air is sometimes a jarring experience. He remembers that which he disagrees with more readily than that which reinforces his own attitudes. Also, some viewers feel personally offended when we bring them disheartening news."

Selective Perception

This pointed quote is one of many provocative ones reported in the distinguished Columbia Journalism Review in its coverage of a meeting of the International Broadcast Institute concerning television news. Journalists and social scientists from various nations attended the conference in Italy. No brief article could offer a complete cross-section of all the individual points, but here are several others along the lines of Lower's thoughts on "selective perception."

Dr. James D. Halloran, director, Centre for Mass Communications Research, University of Leicester, England: "We did some work on some programs put on by one of the companies in England on the nature of prejudice, and we found this was a perfect example of selective perception of news. Viewers just used these messages—which were, in a sense, an attempt to produce a more enlightened view—to support their own position."

Racial Prejudice

Nigel Ryan, editor, Independent Television News, Ltd., in England: "I think the classic case of the ineffectiveness of the medium is the development of racial prejudice in Britain. The whole weight of broadcasting was thrown for years against this. Every single program that was done was designed to diminish prejudice. If you were to attack broadcasting in Britain as not having been objective on any issue, I would say that it was here, in constant preaching and in the careful avoidance of the immigration issue for years."

Kaarle Nordenstrem, head of research, Finnish Broadcasting Corp.: "What research in Scandinavia has proved about the impact of television is that it really is a very effective means of reinforcement of attitudes. Even if we try to change them, people are selective in perception; as we know from other studies they pick up points which are in harmony with their own points of view."

If you don't use Stayman, don't intend to use Stayman and in general aren't interested in improving your bidding at all, we are afraid that this article will be wasted on you.

If not, read this, study it a few minutes and see how easy it is to play Stayman according to JACOBY MODERN.

Our two-club response to an opening no-trump is artificial and forcing and demands that partner rebid two diamonds with no four-card or longer major. Otherwise opener rebids two of his four-card major. With both majors opener rebids two of the better one.

Today's hand shows Stayman at its best. South has a very normal no-trump opening. Without the Stayman convention, North would raise to three no-trump. He has 11 high-card points and a balanced hand. West would open the seven of hearts and barring some really frightful plays by East and West, South would make only eight tricks.

Playing Stayman the response is two clubs. North intends to bid three no-trump if South's rebid is two hearts or two diamonds but South rebids two spades. A 4-4 spade fit has been found and North jumps to the spade game.

West opens the same seven of hearts. Dummy's ace wins. Three leads pull the defender's trumps. Then South knocks out the ace of diamonds. Since the club finesse works and one club can be discarded on dummy's fourth diamond, South collects 11 tricks and scores game and rubber. A lot better than going down one at three no-trump.

Ancestors Take Front Seat in Cambodian-Cong War

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodian troops have refused to west-southwest of Phnom Penh fight the Viet Cong and North Tuesday. The road is Phnom Vietnamese who cut Highway 4 Penh's only overland route to linking Phnom Penh and the nation's only deepwater port of Kompong Som during a port and oil refinery. three-day religious holiday. Although Highway 4 was cut, field officers said today. some motorists and trucks still Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were trying to get through. UPI these troops seized a three-mile correspondent Barney Seibert reported two taxicabs and a pass. on this road—not the bus made it past the Viet Cong Cambodian army. The Cambodian high command said the war had slowed to the extent it would hold no briefings for newsmen on Thursday. Besides, it is part of the Pchum Ben religious holiday when Cambodians honor their ancestors by meditation and visits to graves and Buddhist pagodas. "I must take that time to contemplate my ancestors," said Maj. Am Rong, Cambodia's official military spokesman. "Actually, I am somewhat surprised personally that the Viet Cong have not used this period to attack us," Am Rong said. "They usually do this sort of thing. I think this proves further the Viet Cong are not strong enough to undertake any kind of major offensive action in Cambodia."

The area of Highway 4 under Communist control passes through the Kirirom pass, a heavily forested area where the Cambodian command says at least one North Vietnamese division is garrisoned. "There are also many Cambodians working with the Viet Cong around Kirirom," said a senior field officer in the area. Communiques from Saigon said seven Americans were killed and three others injured when Viet Cong ground fire shot down a helicopter 28 miles north of Saigon and two other helicopters crashed on Sunday.

IF YOU DON'T SUCCEED — In a second try Tuesday, the 55-year-old Manchester Bridge in Pittsburgh, Pa., was brought down with explosives sending the 2,000-tons of steel into the Allegheny River. An attempt to bring down the 534-foot south span was tried earlier but failed. (UPI TELE- PHOTO).

Gen. Abrams Stricken

(Combined Wire Services) Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam, was rushed to a hospital today after collapsing in the arms of an aide. U.S. military spokesmen said the 56-year-old general suffered a "dizzy spell" during ceremonies honoring Australian army forces at this coastal military complex 40 miles southeast of Saigon. They said Abrams, who had been suffering from a virus infection the past five days and a "very slight inflammation of the right lung," was reported in satisfactory condition. Meanwhile, the U.S. Army Command in Vietnam has quietly begun limiting supplies of ammunition and most other equipment to its nearly 300,000 troops, military sources said today. The sources said that the most restrictive "available supply rate" (ASR)—in effect, rationing system—ever put on U.S. troops in Vietnam has been applied to virtually all supplies, including both food and ammunition. The result is a strong complaint by men in the field, who in some cases have told reporters they feel they are fighting with less than enough ammunition. "We don't have enough ammunition to zero in our weapons," said a squad leader at Fire Support Base Bangor, 70 miles northeast of Saigon. "We can't even get ammunition for our M60 machine-guns. We're limited to 50,000 rounds a month, and that's nothing if we get into any type of contact," said the squad leader, a staff sergeant. Army headquarters at Long Binh, 15 miles northeast of Saigon, denies there is any rationing. "Ammunition, like other high cost assets, is being managed," said one high-ranking source at Long Binh. "But there is nothing contemplated that will preclude a unit getting support when and if it is required." Field commanders have lodged unofficial complaints with their division headquarters about the new restrictions. "Today, we have enough ammunition stockpiled that my men would handle a heavy enemy attack," said one commander. "But if we had another communist offensive, say like the Tet offensive, we'd never last."

Sources close to the Army's supply headquarters say that is exactly one of the points considered when the ASRS are being drawn up. "We take into account the level of enemy activity, the amount of ammunition requested by various units, withdrawal rates — virtually everything," said the sources. "Then we decide what the available supply rate of ammunition will be for the next little while."

Agnew Carries On HST Tradition

MINOT, N.D. (UPI)—Comparing himself with the old Harry S. Truman, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew roared through the West today, defending President Nixon and calling for the election of Republican senators. Cheered by friendly receptions in Sioux Falls, S.D., and Minot, the vice president was to fly to Salt Lake City later today for more campaigning after taping a television interview here. Agnew defended his criticism of the report of the Scranton Commission on Campus Unrest, which he termed during his Sioux Falls stop "pabulum for permissivists." Agnew's aides pointed out, however, his views do not necessarily represent those of the President, who has not yet commented on the commission's report. The reference to Truman came at a rally here Tuesday night on behalf of Rep. Thomas Kleppe, R-N.D., the GOP candidate for the Senate. The local paper had noted President Truman had made a "give 'em hell" speech here exactly 18 years before on behalf of Adlai E. Stevenson. "In a way, I'm carrying on the Truman tradition," Agnew said. "He always said he wasn't giving anyone hell—just tell the truth."

"Now, 18 years later, I'm crisscrossing the nation telling the truth but they think it's hell." Agnew condemned Sen. Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., Kleppe's opponent, for failing to support the Nixon administration on Vietnam and on matters of national defense. He said it was time North Dakota elected a senator "who will speak up hard and straight for the great silent majority of America in this part of the country."

extinction of hundreds of thousands of South Vietnamese and the vital interests of our nation for at least another generation," he said. "We cannot afford to have the zigzags and flipflops in positions of power." Members of the audience carried signs proclaiming "Agnew in '76," "Go-Go Agnew," "Right on Spiro," and "Motherhood, Apple Pie and Spiro."

Tearful Mom Tells Of Child Drugs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sitting less than 15 feet from two child psychiatrists who use drugs on school children for "behavior modification," a tearful mother told how she fought three years to keep her children from the treatment. Mrs. Daniel H. Youngs, Indianapolis, Ind., spoke slowly, dabbing at her eyes and nose from time to time, as she told a congressional committee Tuesday of alleged harassment in Little Rock, Ark. She told of the shock when the principal of the Hardin Bales school took a look at her daughter's report card and announced she had minimal brain dysfunction and needed the help of drugs prescribed by the University of Arkansas Medical Center for Child Study. She said there was three years of pressure to put both of her children in such a program and "the final blow" when her son came home hysterical after being confined in a cardboard box to prevent him from being so easily distracted in class. Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., chairman of a special House subcommittee on the right to privacy, said Mrs. Youngs' experience was "indicative of many other families in many other communities. We have stacks of letters that tell of similar problems." The committee was told that 200,000 to 300,000 children with behavior problems which create learning disabilities are receiving amphetamines, many under government-financed programs. Listening throughout were Drs. John E. Peters and Sam D. Clements of the University of Arkansas Medical Center. Peters conceded the type of harassment Mrs. Youngs claimed in Little Rock might have been "a rare instance" of such pressure, adding, "I think it's terrible."

He said under no circumstances were school officials authorized to require drugs for any children.
